Consolidation Vote: A Familiar Refrain: Wins in Township, Loses in Borough Again

The establishment of a commission to study whether to consolidate the two Princetons was rejected by a 377-vote margin in the Borough, with 1,198 voting against the study and 821 supporting it. In the Township, however, the vote was 2½-to-one in favor of the study: 2,571 to 1,000. In order to proceed, the study would have had to pass in both municipalities.

Orren Jack Turner, a leader of the anti-consolidation group, said the group had eight steering committee people and 75 volunteers, and they obviously produced. "I just hope they stop talking about 33 votes."

In 1979, Borough voters defeated consolidation by 33 votes.

Mr. Turner added, "Consolidation is like a vampire. It rises from the grave and has to be returned every few years."

Borough Councilman Roger Martindell, a candidate for the Consolidation Study Commission, said the economic climate had made people afraid, with any change perceived as a threat. "The anti-study group ran a very aggressive campaign and succeeded in persuading voters that this was a referendum on consolidation itself," he added.

It was discovered early Tuesday morning that Borough election booths called the consolidation study question, "Township Public Question No. 1." Borough Clerk Penney Edwards-Carter changed "Township" to "Borough" in each booth.

Noting that this could have led to confusion, Township Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand said, "Even if only one voter didn't vote, the vote should be thrown out this year and done again next year. It caused a lot of confusion."

"I am obviously disappointed," said Van Zandt Williams Jr., a Borough candidate for the Consolidation Study

Reed, Freda, Wadsworth Victors in Borough; Glasberg Defeats Godfrey in Township Race

Reed Polls Most Votes; Wadsworth Wins by 69

The Republican landslide predicted for the State even found its way into normally Democratic Princeton Borough. Ray Wadsworth, in his third bid for Council, defeated Democratic incumbent Lucy Mackenzie.

Marvin Reed

This is the first time since 1985 — when Dick Woodbridge was elected — that a Republican has gained a seat on Borough Council.

Marvin Reed won his first elected term as Mayor, topping the ticket and beating his Republican opponent, Richard Strazza, by 354 votes: 1,314 to 960.

Mark Freda won his third term on Council, with 1,240 votes. Mr. Wadsworth was 37 votes behind him, also winning a full three-year term.

Republican Oliver Houghton finished fourth, with 916 votes.

Democratic Incumbent David Goldfarb defeated Republican Yolan Arlett by 1,195 to 1,002 votes to win a two-year unexpired term on Council.

As the returns were tallied on large pieces of paper tacked to the wall at the Unitarian Church, Mayor Reed stood with his calculator and added them up. He was the first person in the room to know of his victory.

"I thought it was a clean, well-fought campaign," said Mr. Reed, who was appointed Mayor after Barbara Sig-

Margin of Victory is 125 Votes in Township

Larry Glasberg defeated the incumbent Township Committeeman Leonard Godfrey by 125 votes to win the single seat up for election on Township Committee this year. His election extends the Republican majority on the five-member Committee to four, with Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand the sole Democrat after January 1.

Plasma Physics Laboratory Celebrates 40th Anniversary With Dinner Honoring Its Founder, Dr. Lyman Spitzer Jr.

Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL) celebrated its 40th anniversary last week with a series of events capped by a dinner to honor the founder of the laboratory, Lyman Spitzer Jr.

Carl Sagan, professor of astrophysics at Cornell and host of the award-winning television show "Cosmos," was the keynote speaker at the dinner, which was attended by several hundred scientists, researchers and government officials. The Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory is operated by Princeton University under contract with the U.S. Department of Energy to conduct research in magnetic fusion, with the ultimate goal being the development of magnetic fusion energy as an inexhaustible, safe and environmentally acceptable method of generating electricity for the long term.

Magnetic fusion research at Princeton began in 1951 under the code name Project Matterhorn. Dr. Spitzer, who was chairman of the Astronomy Department at the time, had been involved for many years in the study of very hot rarified gases in interstellar space.

Intrigued by claims of fusion researchers in Argentina that turned out to be highly exaggerated, Dr. Spitzer conceived of a figure-eight shaped tube in which plasma (hot gas containing negatively charged free electrons and positively charged ions) would be confined by an externally generated magnetic field for the purpose of studying the controlled release of thermonuclear energy. He called his concept "the stellarator" because, as Dr. Sagan put it at the dinner, "thermonuclear fusion is an everyday reality throughout the Milky Way galaxy."

In May, 1951 Dr. Spitzer took his design before the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, and six weeks later, on July 1, 1951, the AEC approved funding for his research, which became a part of Project Mat-

Two Candidates Apply to Fill Borough Seat on School Board

On Wednesday night, November 20, the School Board will interview the two Borough residents who have applied for the Board seat left empty by the resignation of Allen "Skip" Grossman.

The two candidates are Frank Strasburger, 53 University Place, Episcopal chaplain at Princeton University; and Richard Godfrey, 44 Pine Street, an attorney with the law firm of Hannoch Weisman in Princeton.

On Monday night, the two will appear at a meeting sponsored by The Robeson Group, which will begin at 8 p.m. at Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. The Robeson Group was formed two years ago out of concern both with the education of minority students and the issue of curricular reform.

"The Robeson group recognizes that while the selection process for filling such vacancies does not formally involve community input, we nonetheless are aware that many parents and community members are interested in the Board's action on this important matter, and wish to get to know the candidates before the Board makes its selection," said Robeson Group Spokesperson Todd Tieger.

The Rev. Strasbuger has two children at Community Park School. A six-year resident of Princeton, his experience includes teaching and school administration.

He believes people should serve the town, and feels that those at the University, particularly, should be more involved in service.

"I think Princeton has an opportunity to be a model for something that isn't happening much across the country," he said. "In most school systems there is not the opportunity for integrated education as there is in this system. Most are more segregated. As we assure diversity in each of our schools, we must create programs that are more than a matter of numbers."

Mr. Strasburger also feels that more long-range planning is needed in the schools, and that school officials should think deeply about what is meant by good schools.

Mr. Godfrey has three children in the Princeton schools, one each at Littlebrook, John Witherspoon, and Princeton High. A Princeton resident for 14 years, he pointed out that he had many years of government service before going into private law practice three years ago. Most recently, he was deputy treasurer for the State of New Jersey.

"Having served on many boards and authorities on the State level, I would like to offer my expertise on the local level," he said. His background in finance, law and policy will, he feels, help the District deal with the years ahead.

"In the years coming up, Princeton will have to do more with less dollars," said Mr. Godfrey. "I would like to help balance competing priorities."

The two candidates will be interviewed in public session on November 20, beginning at 8:30 p.m., in the Valley Road building. Board members will then move into closed session for discussion. This will be followed by an announcement of their selection. The official swearing-in will take place at the November 26 School Board meeting.

The person chosen to fill the seat would serve until the April 14, 1992, reorganization meeting. He would also have the opportunity to run in March of next year for a full three-year term on the School Board.

Watershed Association Plans Annual Fundraiser

Volunteers for the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association are hand-coloring and addressing invitations to Novemberfest, the association's annual auction which will be held on Saturday evening, November 23, at the Princeton Marriott in Forrestal Village. Marga Rowaan of Pennington is chairing the event and the executive committee includes Grace Alexander, Charo Juega, Dottie Myers, Sonia Osborne, Janet Strathman, and Flan Thompson.

This successful fundraiser featuring silent and live auctions has been a highlight of the holiday season for over 15 years in the Princeton community.

Last year more than 200 contributors — individuals, small businesses and corporations — donated items for bid at the auction and more than $35,000 was raised for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association.

This year's Novemberfest theme features environmental education. Plans for the evening include an open bar/cocktails and hors d'oeuvres during which time guests can bid on the silent auction items and view the live auction items from 5:30 to 7:30. At this time guests will be able to sign up for the special, unusual trips and talks sponsored by the Watershed.

The live auction will follow a dinner designed by Marriott's head chef.

Tickets for Novemberfest are available in different categories, starting at $85 per person for patron, $150 for sponsor, and $250 for benefactor.

Self-Defense Seminar

The Princeton Area American Red Cross is sponsoring a Self-Defense Seminar especially for women on Wednesday, November 20, at 6:30 p.m. at the Princeton First Aid Squad, located at 237 North Harrison Street in Princeton.

Veteran police officer and black belt holder Ron Chmielewski will provide the training. Participants will learn what an attacker looks for in a potential victim, and how to defend themselves against the five most common types of attacks on the street. Class size is limited and participants should wear comfortable clothing.

To reserve a place, mail a check for $35 to the American Red Cross, 182 North Harrison Street, Princeton 08540 or register in person at the Chapter. Call the Red Cross at 924-2404 for information.

C-Tec Announces Cable TV Rate Increase; Fifth Rise in Three Years for Subscribers

Just a year after its last rate increase, C-Tec Cable has announced another rise in rates. Beginning December 1, basic cable service will go up from $24 to $26 a month. Limited basic will rise from $13.50 to $15.

The announcement comes in the midst of negotiations between C-Tec and the Princetons on franchise renewal terms. The current franchise expires in October, 1992.

TOPICS Of the Town

This is the fifth rise in the basic cable rate in three years. In November, 1987, the basic rate was increased from $15 to $18.95. In March, 1989, it rose another $2. In February, 1990, C-Tec increased the monthly rate by a dollar. And in December, 1990, the company added on another $2.05 increase.

Last year, limited basic service rose from $12 to $13.50. It will now be $15. Limited basic covers channels 2 through 52, with some exceptions.

Municipalities were stripped of any power to regulate what cable companies charge when cable rates were deregulated by Congress in 1984. Franchise negotiations may seek neither to regulate rates nor set programming.

"We can't negotiate rates or programs, but we certainly can talk of these," said Hugh Johnston, a member of the Joint Cable Committee. After nearly a year of meetings, the Committee last month issued its report on renewal of the C-Tec franchise.

Hoping for Legislation

"We can and we should talk of these," added Mr. Johnston. "C-Tec has been willing to listen and talk in the area of programming, but less so in rates. We have to hope for some kind of resolution of federal legislation to make it possible to get a handle on rates."

Borough Mayor Marvin Reed has asked Borough Attorney Michael Herbert to look into the possibility of appealing the rate hike to the State Office of Cable TV or the Federal Communications Commission. The Mayor, however, was not optimistic.

"If all we do is run up expensive legal bills and we're overruled, it will open people up to frustration," he said. "At some point, C-Tec will lose more and more people as they drop the service."

Cable rates in the Princetons are among the highest in the State. The C-Tec system has approximately 4,900 subscribers in the Borough and Township, about equally divided between the two municipalities.

The rate increase will also apply to several premium channels, including a $3 increase for Cable Value Package (CVP) and HBO. There were also some rate decreases, such as a $2 reduction for SportsChannel. In addition, C-Tec is adding several new channels to its offerings. These include The Nashville Network, The Family Channel, and Mind Extension University. Last month, the cable company announced that WGN would return to the lineup in January.

This was done in response to a number of Princeton subscribers — many ardent fans of the Chicago Cubs — who launched a vigorous protest when WGN was dropped.

Increase in Costs

In a letter to subscribers, C-Tec Vice President Mark Haverkate said the rate increase was necessary because of an anticipated 18 percent increase in programming costs in 1992 due to new channel additions and increased rates from each programmer, and higher business operation expenses.

The Joint Cable Committee's report, which will be used by the Borough and Township as the basis of negotiating a new franchise with C-Tec, recommended franchise renewal. It stated, however, that the renewal period should be for a time considerably shorter than the 15 years desired by C-Tec. A franchise period could be as short as three years.

The report determined that a rejection of the current cable television provider's franchise would lead to an expensive legal process.

"C-Tec seems to be determined to keep us in the lead," said Mr. Johnston of the rate increase. He added that the Cable Committee must be vigilant in the months of negotiation with C-Tec that lie ahead.

$500,000 State Grant To Purchase White Farm

Governor Jim Florio has announced to Friends of Princeton Open Space approval of $500,000 from the Green Trust Program of the Department of Environmental Protection and Energy toward purchase of the White Farm.

The White Farm is a New Jersey State and National Register historic site where the British first sighted the colonial troops of George Washington. Here occurred the first skirmish leading to the Battle of Princeton, which took place across the Stony Brook in the present Princeton Battlefield Park.

The approved funding requires a match from the community of money or land in equal value. Friends of Princeton Open Space filed a grant application under the nonprofit organization category made available to groups across the state who have an interest in preserving open space and protecting the environment.

In these recessionary times, land gifts are a way to support the purchase of open space. These gifts can bring property owners substantial savings in local and federal taxes. Neighbors will be approached for gifts of land or easements on lands that are in the floodplain or other environmentally sensitive areas, to meet the match of value.

Benefits to the landowners include reduction of property tax, and the possible gift advantage of appreciated property for reduction of income tax and estate taxes. Owners desiring information on gifts of land may call Friends of Princeton Open Space at 921-2772.

The grant proposal was written by Friends of Princeton Open Space board members Rosemary Blair and Ellen Dutton in February of 1991.

Most of the White Farm property is presently owned by developer Calton Homes. The present site plan calls for the 122-acre property to include a combination of single family and townhouse buildings. There will be a total of 300 residences built on approximately 50 acres. The remainder of the land is either reserved for roadway, floodplain or open space. The 22 acres surrounding the existing farmhouse site is restricted against any further development.

To date, lawyers for Calton have said that the developer has no interest in selling some or all of the developable land for open space preservation. Calton Homes has received preliminary and final site plan approval and has indicated that it intends to start development of the site in the near future.

Friends of Princeton Open Space is taking the lead on raising funds and land for preserving the White Farm. Princeton Township is precluded from fund raising or limiting development because of the settlement of a lawsuit brought by Calton Homes with respect to developing the property.

NYC Man Is Charged In Book Shoplifting

A New York City resident, Pavel Denis, 35, has been charged by Borough police with shoplifting four books valued at $234.50 from Micawber Books, 108 Nassau Street.

A customer, police said, saw Denis putting books in a bag last week and pointed it out to an employee. When confronted, the suspect returned one book and, after he was followed outside, later handed over three more. Included were two books of photographs valued at $60 and $50 and one entitled Torment in Art worth $75. Arrested and later released, Denis faces a November 18 hearing in Borough court.

Township police report two shopliftings on Saturday at the Princeton Shopping Center.

A $270 pair of shoes was taken between 4:45 and 5 from a display shelf at Center Shoe & Repair. A suspect is a stocky black female wearing a green jacket and a green baseball cap. Police said two boys, 10 to 12 years old, also black, were standing in an area where the shoes were and had distracted the sales clerk.

Earlier, between 3 and 3:15, a number of clothing items with a total value of $908 were shoplifted from a children's clothing store in the center.

Two suspects are a Puerto Rican female with lots of makeup and dark hair, wearing a black leather coat and carrying a black leather bag, and a 5-8 Puerto Rican male, also wearing a leather coat. The store was crowded at the time and the sales person did not notice the clothing was missing until after the suspects had left.

According to Lt. Anthony Gaylord, the same suspects were also seen in the store the previous week when some items were detected missing, but that theft was not reported.

Three Juveniles Charged

Three juveniles, all 14, one from the Township and two from Kendall Park, have been charged with shoplifting clothing Sunday from three downtown stores.

The three were inside the Competitive Sport on Palmer Square around 4:30 when a clerk saw one put something in a bag. She was able to notify Ptl. Robert Currier who was in the area at the time. He stopped the suspects.

The officer's subsequent investigation revealed the youths had clothing, including gloves, shorts and a pair of hockey gloves, from Competitive Sport, the Sports Corner on Nassau Street and The Beach on Hulfish.

All the items have been returned to the store owners, Capt. Peter Hanley reported. The thefts have been referred to the Borough juvenile officer for further action.

An attempt to pass a bad check at the Radio Shack in the Princeton Shopping Center early last week failed when the clerk asked for identification.

Police report two youths about 19 entered the store and presented a check made out for $100 to purchase some merchandise. When the clerk asked for ID, they fled. A computer check of a driver's license number on the check led Township police to a West Windsor resident who stated that her wallet had been stolen the week before but she had not reported the theft to police.

One suspect is described as 5-9 to 5-10, wearing a short-sleeve light-colored shirt, baggy pants and sneakers; the second is about 5-7 and has brown hair.

Charge Is Harassment, But Who Is Guilty?

A 37-year-old Township resident charged last week with harassment by two Princeton University proctors later charged the proctors with the same offense.

According to Capt. Peter Hanley, proctors James Collins and George Kucher observed a man sitting on a bench at night outside Stanhope Hall, which houses the campus Department of Public Safety. Believing the suspect to be under the influence of alcohol, the proctors approached. When they attempted to check him out, he tried to flee and pushed one proctor to the ground.

The proctors notified Borough police and the suspect, Dean R. Fuccello, 37, of Magie Apartments, Faculty Road, was apprehended on Palmer Square by Ptl. Vincent DeMartino. The proctors signed an harassment complaint against Mr. Fuccello, who subsequently filed the same charge against them. All are scheduled to appear in Borough court November 18.

Sapphire Ring Is Stolen From Ewing Street Home

A blue sapphire ring with two small diamonds, valued at $950, was stolen early last week from a downstairs table in a home on Ewing Street.

At the time, around 6 p.m., police report an occupant was taking a shower upstairs when she heard footsteps on the first floor. She hollered down and when no one answered she investigated and noticed the ring was missing.

A week later, around 3 Sunday afternoon, another incident took place at the same home. A resident heard noises outside the house, Lt. Anthony Gaylord reported, looked out and saw three youths between 17 and 20 all wearing brown leather bomber-type jackets. They were tampering with a phone box on the side of the house.

The resident went out and chased after the youths but gave up and called police. There was no damage to the house, no entry.

$2,000 Sandblaster Stolen From Road Repair Site

A $2,000 sand blaster was stolen from its Palmer Square construction site early last week where the owner, Richard E. Pierson Construction Company of East Windsor, is in the process of finishing the resurfacing of Palmer Square.

Four jackets were stolen last week from the University campus, three from a coat rack in Rockefeller College. Taken between 6:20 and 7:15 Monday evening were a $400 leather bomber jacket and a $265 light brown leather jacket. A Levi khaki jacket valued at $80 was taken earlier. Another student listed the theft of her $250 leather coat which she had left unattended early Monday evening in Mathey College.

There were two victims in still another Monday evening theft at Seabrook Hall on the Westminster Choir College campus. One reported $300 in cash stolen; the second a Walkman and Pentax camera worth a combined $250. Police report it is believed the room was locked but there were no signs of a forced entry.

BEGINNING SCHOOL is the name of the new pre-K and kindergarten program launched this fall by Princeton Friends School. From left, enjoying a story with their teacher Mia Genis are Lucy Fishman, Paul Williams, Deirdre Tomlinson and Christina Faltings. The program is housed in the renovated 1781 farmhouse that was originally built for the Schoolmaster of the elementary school run by the Quaker community between about 1780 and 1870.

A resident of Honolulu, Hawaii, visiting her daughter who is a student at Princeton University, had her purse stolen after leaving it unattended in the McCormick Art Museum. Total loss, including the approximately $135 the victim's black leather purse contained, is $193.

8 More Bikes Stolen

Seven more bicycles were reported stolen last week from the University campus, including two from Spelman Hall. A $460, 21-speed Schwinn mountain bike was taken from the second entry of Spelman and an 18-speed Alpine bike, worth $120, was stolen from inside the fourth entry. Both had been locked to themselves.

Also, a 21-speed Schwinn valued at $450 from the fourth entry of Joline Hall; a $300 12-speed, unlocked Peugeot model with its chain missing from the eighth entry of Patton Hall; a 10-speed Specialized bike valued at $450, from outside Forbes College; and a graduate student's 18-speed Schwinn mountain bike from outside the Engineering Quadrangle building. It is valued at $250.

Another graduate student reported the theft of his $340 12-speed Schwinn from outside the dining hall at the New Grad College. The bike's cable lock had been cut overnight, police said.

Sunday morning at 10, a resident of Park Place looked out his window to see a man lifting his grey, $250 bicycle over a parking meter where the victim had secured it with a cable lock wrapped around the pole.

Police responded to a call from the victim but were not able to locate the suspect, who is described as an Hispanic in his early 20s with shoulder-length dark hair.

A passenger side window was smashed to enter a 1985 Volkswagen while it was parked in Nassau Court, a lot located behind the former Thomas Sweet shop. A $700 Alpine AM/FM car stereo valued at $700 was taken according to the owner, a resident of Kendall Park.

Two more license plates were stolen last week. Borough police report a New Jersey plate was removed from the car of a Township resident while it was parked Saturday afternoon on Witherspoon Street, and Township police say an Arizona plate was taken earlier in the week from a car parked in a University lot.

Township Thefts

Township police report a Sony portable stereo-cassette player, valued at $120, was stolen overnight from a student's room in Forbes College dorm. No sign of forced entry to the locked room.

Fifty-five dollars worth of tools were removed from a tool bag underneath a bicycle seat while the bike was left Friday night at the Princeton Shopping Center. The victim is a Princeton resident.

A driver's side window was broken to enter a 1988 Chevrolet while it was parked Monday night from 10:45 to 11:35 in a lot adjacent to the Wawa Store on University Place. The owner, an employee of the store, told police a $300 CD player was removed from the dashboard. Replacement cost of the window was placed at $200.

Earlier in the weekend, a female employee of the store discovered that her Geo truck had been entered while it had been parked in the same lot. The doors were locked, but police say entry was gained by unzipping the small truck's convertible top. Nothing was reported taken.

School Parties Meet In Negotiating Session

The long wait for a State mediator finally came to an end on Monday, when the mediator met with negotiating teams representing the School Board and the Princeton Regional Administrators' Association (PRAA) on terms for a new contract.

Board member Corinne Kyle, who heads the Board's team, said that progress was made, and that another session would be scheduled as soon as possible. This would probably be in early December, she said.

Eight administrators are members of the PRAA, including the school principals. Eleven other administrators, including Supervising Principal John Sakala and Assistant Superintendent Bob Rader, are not in the union. Their contracts, however, are based on the terms of the PRAA settlement.

Someone Had a "Just Ducky" Idea for a Fund Raiser

Chances are the spectators who watched the running of the New York City Marathon last Sunday either in person or on television did not have half the fun and the laughs as those who watched the Princeton Day School Duck Race from the banks of Stony Brook.

Organized by the parents of the PDS girls' varsity and junior varsity field hockey teams to raise money for an upcoming field hockey trip to Lutterworth, England, the event is unique in the annals of Princeton fundraising efforts. Some 751 two-inch plastic ducks were launched onto a section of Stony Brook near Pretty Brook Road to make their way unaided through riffles and past rocks to the finish line about 100 yards downstream.

THEY'RE OFF! Hundreds of little plastic ducks bob on the slow-moving current in Stony Brook, while Hap Young mimics a racetrack announcer in calling out the relative position of the leaders. The balmy fall afternoon added to spectator pleasure in the light-haarted, financially successful fundraiser for the Princeton Day School girls field hockey team. (Liz Terrell photo)

Underneath each duck was a number corresponding to a raffle receipt. As the ducks came through the finish gate they were plucked one by one from the water by race officials, who tagged them in order of finish. "Ducky" prizes were awarded to the first 10 finishers.

Color commentary was provided by Owen "Hap" Young, who used a bullhorn to comment on the position of the leading ducks as they made their way through "Ruddy Run," "The Roaring Riffles" and "Mallard Mile." Mr. Young's wife Nancy, who is director of the PDS Annual Fund, was one of the organizers of the event, along with Jill Thomas, girls' varsity field hockey coach.

The Fowl Line

The event lent itself to puns. As the ducks were being restrained behind a wooden board at the starting line, Mr. Young commented on "getting all our ducks in order." The beribboned finish became "the fowl line." During the first part of the race officials were allowed to give a wandering duck a lateral push to keep it from getting hung up on the bank but no forward movement was permitted.

In the weeks preceding the Duck Race, field hockey parents sold duck "adoption papers," a more beguiling term for raffle tickets, at $10 apiece.

Having ordered 1,000 of the two-inch, blue, pink and yellow plastic ducks from a Chicago supplier, they managed to sell 751 of these adoption papers, yielding $7,510 for the hockey trip.

They also obtained ten "just ducky" prizes from area merchants and parents. First prize, a $500 gift certificate at LaVake Jewelers, was won by Gabriel Devereux, a student at Princeton High School. Miss Devereux was so confident her duck would win that she went to LaVake's before the race was even held to look over the possibilities for spending the top prize money.

Second prize, a catered dinner for up to 20 people, went to Tina Greenberg, a PDS trustee. Third prize of a golf foursome and lunch at the Metedeconk Golf Club course designed by Robert Trent Jones was won by Mr. Young.

Hung Up on a Rock

Headmaster Duncan Alling was so taken by the spirit and the fun of the occasion that he decided on the spot to award dinner for two at the Alchemist and Barrister to the last finisher. The prize went to Ben Eckardt, whose duck got hung up on a rock. Mr. Eckardt is a field hockey parent who helped stage the event.

In addition to the Youngs and Mr. Eckardt, other parents on the Duck Race Committee were Cathy Miller, who assisted Mrs. Young with promotion; Kitty Kornhauser and Mary Terrell, who were in charge of raffle ticket sales; Bel Frank and Wendy Payne, who obtained the prizes; Peter Eaton who worked with Mr. Young and Mr. Eckardt on staging; and Merritt Hogan and Connie Woodford, who were in charge of the cider and doughnuts party afterward.

A year ago, a girls' field hockey team from Lutterworth came to PDS on a cultural exchange, and the upcoming trip for 10 days over Thanksgiving is a return visit. Accompanied by Ms. Thomas, Therese Lang, assistant coach, and Todd Broxmeyer, the JV coach, 35 girls will compete in field hockey against several schools, attend classes, visit historic landmarks and live with local families.

The varsity was 11-3-2 as they went into the semi-finals of the Prep A Championship against Newark Academy. Last year they were defeated by Lawrenceville in the Prep A finals and were hoping for a more successful rematch this year.

Vehicles Are Targets Of Vandals Last Week

Princeton police report several instances of criminal mischief last week to vehicles.

In the Township, the trunk deck and right rear panel of a 1984 Mercedes was spray-painted with green paint while it was parked during mischief night in the owner's garage on Lake Drive. Police said the garage door was not locked.

A corrosive liquid was poured on the hood of a 1985 Ford pickup truck while it was parked overnight during the weekend on Edgerstoune Road. The liquid ran down to the grille and bumper area of the truck which is owned by a Trenton contractor. No estimate of the damage, say police.

The windshield of a 1984 Dodge sedan was cracked when it was struck by an unknown object while it was parked Friday afternoon in the Redding Circle area. Police report no suspects and listed the replacement cost at $200.

In the Borough, the right passenger side window of a 1984 Pontiac was broken while it was parked between 11 Friday night and 1:30 Saturday morning on Olden Street. The seminary student who owns the car told police nothing was taken.

The hood of a 1990 Honda was scratched while it was parked last week in a lot in the 200 block of Nassau Street, and a small battery was thrown through a window pane of a home on Hawthorne Avenue during mischief night.

Alternate High School Will Begin at P.H.S.

An alternate high school for students who have been chronically unsuccessful in school is expected to begin this month at Princeton High School.

Plans for the pilot program were approved by the Board of Education's Planning Committee last week.

The school will serve between 15 and 30 freshmen, said Supervising Principal John Sakala. Their selection will be based, in part, on their middle school record and their first marking period grades.

The program, called Project Discovery, will not require funding from outside the school budget.

No student will be forced to enroll in the alternative program, which will encompass half the eight-period school day. Students will be in lunch and mainstream classrooms during the day's second half.

Project Discovery will focus on four areas: world history/cultures; counseling/study skills; mathematics; and English.

The program was not designed for those students whose academic problems result from limited language proficiency or special education classification. Participants, instead, will be students who feel disenfranchised, and for whom the existing program and structure of the high school do not work.

Specifically, according to the plan for Project Discovery presented at the School Board's Planning Committee meeting, the students will fit into five categories: disruptive; frequently absent from classes; seemingly alienated from school/community norms; showing little apparent home support; and demonstrating poor academic performance.

The new program will limit the number of students in a class group to 15. Wherever possible, tutorial instruction will be available.

Students will focus on the content outlined for the core freshman programs. Modifications will have more to do with instructional strategies and assessment than with actual course content or subject matter focus. In social studies, for example, students would learn about the history and culture of Latin America, Africa, and Western Europe. But the instructional approach would feature a conscious intent to connect these cultures with the heritages of the learners.

Students' length of participation in the alternative high school will be flexible. The pilot will run for no longer than eight months, however, so they will be encouraged to remain in the program until June. The goal of the pilot is to prepare all participants for fully mainstreamed study during their sophomore year.

Project Discovery participants will be expected to arrive at and attend all scheduled classes; conduct themselves in a nondisruptive manner while in class; complete all assigned homework; and participate in regularly scheduled group guidance sessions.

Parents of students selected for the pilot will be invited to an evening session in which program staff will be introduced, and parents will be told the objectives and expectations of the program.

Keep Library Downtown Group Tells Planners

Citizens to Expand Library at Present Location (CELPL) has sent a letter to the Princeton Regional Planning Board requesting that the board consider the question of keeping the library at its present location.

The group asks, "Is it the Planning Board's desire to favor dispersal of public institutions throughout the community or does the Planning Board favor a concentration in a vital downtown center?" The letter goes on to state the group's preference, which is to support the concept of concentration, "because to do otherwise would be to have a laissez-faire attitude about planning which would let the priorities of the market place solely dictate such important decisions."

The letter continues by saying, "Dispersal of community institutions will ultimately have an adverse effect on the environment, the traffic plan and any future considerations of

Calm Reigns in Princeton on Mischief Night

Unlike some surrounding communities, mischief night in Princeton was quiet this year — duplicating the calm of recent years.

"Other than a couple of minor things, it was very quiet," said Capt. Peter Hanley in the Borough. "We had very few calls."

"Dead as a doornail," echoed Lt. Anthony Gaylord in the Township. "We had some incidents in the east end of town, in the Riverside, Grover, Hamilton area, but overall it was quiet."

There were a lot of kids out on Halloween night, Lt. Gaylord added. What was a little unusual he said was "we had more older kids out than younger ones."

Some 'mischief' incidents in the Township included two mailboxes damaged on Stuart Road and a portable, folding A-frame sign valued at $100 taken from in front of a store at 820 State Road.

Around 6:30, kids started some small fires in the basketball court area of Riverside School by squirting a plastic bottle filled with gasoline. They were extinguished by the school custodian.

There was a large group of kids in the area, reports Lt. Gaylord, and a few juveniles, he said, were apprehended and turned over to the juvenile officer.

Harvest Fair Planned By the Waldorf School

Horse-drawn hayrides, puppet shows, craft demonstrations, and numerous indoor and outdoor activities for children will be featured at the 10th Annual Waldorf School Harvest Fair (formerly the Winter Fair) on Saturday and Sunday, November 16 and 17.

Outdoor games will include Alpine glider rides, pumpkin pushing contests, sack races, scarecrow making, and a petting zoo. Children also can make jewelry, corn-cob sheep, star crowns, ribbon twirlies, and decorated candles. On Saturday, an orienteering class for older children and adults will be given at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on the school's 20-acre campus, 1062 Cherry Hill Road.

The Folk Tale Puppets will give five performances of The Lost Spear, an African folk tale, on Saturday beginning at 10:30 and three shows on Sunday from 11:30. Parent-made toys for sale will include soft dolls, gnomes, hand-painted shields, wooden swords, magic wands, Robin Hood hats and capes, and play stands. Imported art supplies and a wide selection of illustrated children's books also will be available.

New this year will be demonstrations of brick-oven bread baking, butter churning, spinning and weaving, and blacksmithing (Sunday only). A family restaurant in the school building will serve hearty soups, pita pockets, salads, and desserts. Diners will enjoy live music and singing, and a mime will perform on Saturday.

Fair hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is free. For more information, call the Waldorf School office at 924-0338.

Director of Development Named by Lewis School

The Lewis School, 53 Bayard Lane, has named Bruce McPherson as director of development. He will be responsible for fund-raising, endowments and managing property and facilities.

Mr. McPherson is a graduate of The Lawrenceville School, Class of 1957. He served in the Marine Corps Reserve and attended the School of Architecture at the University of Virginia. He received a bachelor's degree in art in 1963. He spent the next 15 years designing racing yachts at the firms of Sparkman & Stephens in New York and McCurdy and Rhodes of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island.

He joined the faculty at the Lawrenceville School in 1981 and served in various positions, including acting director of annual giving, associate house master and instructor of architecture and woodworking. He also worked with the hockey, sailing and polo teams. He is a resident of Lawrenceville and past vice chairman of the Lawrence Township Zoning Board.

The board of trustees of the Lewis School includes Norman "Pete" Callaway, president of N.T. Callaway Real Estate; Francis J. Pizzi M.D., a neurosurgeon at St. Francis Medical Center, Princeton Medical Center and Pennsylvania Hospital; and Gordon C. Strauss, an attorney with the firm of Carchman, Annich, Sochor, Strauss, Schwartz & Ragsdale.

WWII and Princeton Topic of Two Lectures

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the Historical Society of Princeton will sponsor two public lectures during 1991 and 1992 on how the coming of World War II affected both the Princeton community and Princeton University.

Both talks will be given by Richard D. Challener, professor of history at the University, who was a Princeton sophomore when the Japanese bombs fell on the Hawaiian Islands. The first lecture, entitled "Princeton and Pearl Harbor: Town and Gown," will be presented on Thursday, November 21, at 8 at McCormick Hall (The Art Museum), Room 101, Princeton University. The lecture is free and open to the public.

The lecture will focus on the 18 months from the fall of France in June, 1940, when the war in Europe first came home to Americans, to December 7, 1941. It will examine the first responses of the University to Hitler's triumph in western Europe. At the moment of Hitler's victory, Princeton President Harold Dodds — who strongly believed that Nazism was a "hostile philosophy" that directly challenged democracy — committed the University in his 1940 commencement address to supporting national defense.

He immediately instituted an inventory of what the University and its faculty could contribute to national defense, and over the next year and a half, he quietly instituted measures that made it surprisingly easy for Princeton to mobilize itself for war only a few days after the Japanese attack.

The lecture will analyze the escalating campus debate between "isolationists" and "interventionists," as a student body initially hostile to American involvement found itself confronting the issues of peace or war in 1940 and 1941. "We have no business getting involved in the hideous bedlam of 1940 Europe," the Princetonian editorialized in May 1940, "and we won't — unless we succumb to the kind of thoughtless emotionalism that intoxicated this country in 1917."

The lecture will attempt to gauge the mood of the town of Princeton as its citizens also listened to and participated in the great domestic debate over intervention; encountered the first civilian shortages ("Dealers Blame Bungling for Auto, Gas Shortages" read a headline in the Princeton Herald of early October 1941); faced the first draft of Princeton's young men; participated in war relief societies; and began to purchase their first National Defense bonds.

Indeed, as the Herald noted, by the fall of 1941 both Borough and Township had a Princeton Defense Council and nearly 1,000 Princetonians had volunteered for civilian defense, indicating their willingness to serve, if necessary, in such capacities as block wardens, police, or fire reservists and first aid and rescue personnel. At Cox's Corner on the Lawrenceville Road and in Rocky Hill, the first civilian aircraft spotters were reporting on mock raids conducted by the Army Air Corps along the Eastern seaboard. The lecture will conclude by looking at the immediate response of town and gown to the news that came over their radios in the early afternoon of Sunday, December 7, 1941.

Author Elie Wiesel To Speak on Campus

Nobel Peace Prize laureate, and Boston University professor, Elie Wiesel, will speak at Princeton University on Tuesday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium.

Prof. Wiesel is the author of many books, including Night, Testament, which won the Prix Livre Inter, Jews of Silence and The Fifth Son, which won the Grand Prize for Literature from the City of Paris. He is the recipient of a Congressional Gold Medal of Achievement, the Medal of Liberty Award and the Freedom of Worship Medal, among others.

Prof. Wiesel has worked on behalf of oppressed people for much of his adult life. His first-hand witnessing of the Holocaust has led him to use his talents as an author, journalist and storyteller to defend human rights and peace throughout the world.

Prof. Wiesel and his family were deported by the Nazis to Auschwitz when he was 15 years old. Wiesel's mother, younger sister and father perished in the war. These experiences were kept silent by Wiesel until 1960 when ne published his first account of the Holocaust.

Prof. Wiesel will speak on "A New World Order?". He will assess the reasons for hope and despair in light of the recent turmoil in the world, including the Gulf War and the collapse of the Soviet Union. Tickets may be purchased for $9 at the Richardson Auditorium box office or by calling 258-5000.

Nuclear Weapons Panel Planned on Saturday

The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will hold its 12th annual Interfaith Service for Peace and Conference on Sunday on the theme "Nuclear Weapons and the New World Disorder." This event is co-sponsored by the Princeton University Chapel and Teach Peace.

The Interfaith Service, scheduled for 11 a.m. in the Princeton University Chapel, will feature Prof. Harvey Cox of Harvard Divinity School as the preacher. Prof. Cox is the author of numerous books and articles, including The Secular City, and The Seduction of the Spirit, which was nominated for the National Book Prize.

The afternoon conference will begin at 12:30 with a catered lunch, for which advance reservations are required, at the Woodrow Wilson School of Princeton University. At 1:30 Erwin Knoll, the editor of The Progressive magazine and commentator on The McNeil-Lehrer News Hour, will give the keynote address.

After a question/answer period and a brief break, the conference will continue with a panel on "Halting Nuclear Proliferation" moderated by Ingrid Reed, assistant dean of the Woodrow Wilson School. Panelists will include Freeman Dyson, professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study; Mary McGrory, syndicated Washington Post columnist; Frank von Hippel, professor of public and international affairs at Princeton University; and Prof. Cox.

The concluding speaker at 4:15 p.m. will be Dr. Theodore Taylor, former Deputy Director for Technology of the Defense Nuclear Agency and nuclear weapon designer.

In addition to the Coalition, The Chapel and Teach Peace, there are 78 religious, labor, academic, community, business, and women's groups that are co-sponsors of the event. Costs are $10 for CND members; $15 for nonmembers; and $5 for students/low income. Advance registration is urged.

To pre-register, or for additional information, contact the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, 40 Witherspoon Street, Princeton 08542; telephone 924-5022.

This year's conference is dedicated to the memory of the late Ira Silverman, who served as the Chairperson of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament from 1984 to 1986.

Water Tank Opposition

The South Ridge Association, an organization of Township residents and Mercer County environmentalists opposing the proposed Elizabethtown Water Company tank off Province Line Road, has asked the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law permission to intervene in proposed water rate increase hearings. Ben D. Shiriak, attorney for the Association, said that it "opposes the inclusion in the rates of operating expenses, depreciation, and rate base of any expenditure by Elizabethtown in connection with the proposed underground tank."

The Association, representing more than 1500 members, has appeared before the Princeton Regional Planning Board to protest the proposed 14.5-million-gallon tank as environmentally damaging. "Over 70 percent of the storage water will be used east of Highway One," Ethna Dorman, co-chair of the group, said. "The use of smaller and less damaging sites closer to the areas of consumption will spare an important and sensitive greenbelt area that includes Crescent Rock, a landmark long used by climbers and admired by nature lovers.

"Prolonged and heavy blasting could have serious effect on wells, drainage, and on the surrounding forest and wildlife," Mrs. Dorman said.

Holiday Shopping Trip For Senior Citizens

The Recreation Department is sponsoring a holiday shopping trip to the Franklin Mills Outlet and Shopping Mall on Saturday, November 16. The trip fee is $13 for Trip Club members and $15 for nonmembers. It includes round trip bus transportation and a shopping bag containing coupons that can be used while shopping at Franklin Mills.

For further information, call the Recreation Department at 921-9480.

EQUAL EXCHANGE

OPENING DOORS FOR THIRD WORLD FARMERS

WAKE UP TO A BETTER WORLD!

In much of the Third World, peasant farmers must sell their coffees to mid-level traders at a very low price because they have no alternative market. Equal Exchange trades directly with these small farmers paying them a guaranteed price substantially above the world market price. This provides money for desperately needed health, education, and social services. In return, Equal Exchange gets these farmers' finest beans. These beans are dry roasted to evoke the best flavor and vacuum sealed to insure freshness. The Whole Earth Center is proud to carry Equal Exchange Coffees. Try them and wake up to a better world!

Essay Contest on King For Youth of the Area

As part of its annual tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Princeton University is sponsoring an essay contest with cash prizes for middle school and high school students.

Open to students from all area schools, grades seven through 12, the contest invites comment on the following topic: "If Martin Luther King Jr. were alive today, what actions would he take to try to eliminate racism?"

The response should reflect on the nature of Dr. King's message, its relevance to current events, the characteristics and causes of racism, and specific actions that could be taken to improve understanding and respect among peoples of all races. The essay — approximately 1,000 words or the rough equivalent of five, double-spaced, typewritten pages — is due Tuesday, December 10, at the office of Robert K. Durkee, Vice President for Public Afairs, 223 Nassau Hall, Princeton University, Princeton 08544.

A panel of University students, staff and faculty will award $100 for first prize and $50 for second prize in each of three categories: grades 7 and 8; 9 and 10; and 11 and 12. An award presentation will take place at Princeton University on Wednesday, January 15, at 8 p.m., as part of the University's official 1992 Martin Luther King Day program.

For further information, please call Pam Hersh, Princeton University Director of Community and State Affairs, 258-3018.

British Novelist to Read At 185 Nassau Building

The British novelist A.S. Byatt will read from her work Monday at 4:30 in the Film Theater at 185 Nassau Street.

Ms. Byatt is a Council of the Humanities Faber Fellow at Princeton University this fall. The reading is also sponsored by the Creative Writing Program. She taught English and American literature at University College, London from 1973 to 1983, when she left to write full time.

Her first novel Shadow of a Sun appeared in 1964 and was followed by The Game (1967). The Virgin in the Garden (1978) and Still Life (1985) are the first two novels in a projected series of which she is now writing a third. Her latest novel is Possession (1990), for which she received the Booker Prize.

She is also a critic who contributes regularly to the Times Literary Supplement and is invited to talk about literary criticism, the theory of the novel and 19th- and 20th-century aesthetics. Her critical work includes Degrees of Freedom, a study of Iris Murdoch, and Unruly Times: Wordsworth and Coleridge in Their Time. Passions of the Mind: Selected Essays will be published by Turtle Bay Books this winter.

Red Cross Food Drive Lists Collection Spots

The seventh annual American Red Cross Thanksgiving Food Drive will begin its supermarket collection campaign Saturday at 10 area grocery stores.

Food collection barrels will be set up from 9 to 4 at Davidson's Supermarket on Nassau Street; Super Fresh in the Princeton Shopping Center; Pennington Market, Route 31 and Delaware Avenue, Pennington; Shop-Rite on Route 27, Kingston; Acme on Route 571, West Windsor; Super Fresh in the Town Center, Plainsboro; and Grand Union and Food Town on Route 206, Rocky Hill.

Food items will also be accepted at the Red Cross Princeton Area Chapter office at 182 North Harrison Street. The chapter, along with area schools, will be collecting food and donations through November 21. Participating schools are Hun, Princeton Friends, Chapin, Lawrenceville, Princeton Day, Stuart Country Day, Waldorf, Peddie, Maurice Hawk, Wicoff, Hopewell Valley Central High and Montgomery High School.

For additional information call the Red Cross at 924-2404.

Registration Under Way For YMCA Child Care

The Princeton Family YMCA is expanding its Preschool Mornings program at the Princeton Presbyterian Church in West Windsor. An arts and crafts enrichment program is offered Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 3:30 to 5 for 4- to 6-year-olds. There are also programs for 18 months to 3 years from 9 to 11 a.m. and 11 to 1. The eight-week program begins November 18. Registrations are being accepted.

The YMCA also provides full-day child care at the church for preschoolers 2 months to 17 months. Financial aid is available. Call 497-YMCA for further information.

Novemberfest Auction To Aid Watershed Ass'n.

Novemberfest, the annual auction to benefit the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, will be held Saturday evening, November 23, at the Princeton Mariott in Forrestal Village.

Among the items to be auctioned are a one-week vacation in Bermuda at the Marriot Castle Harbour; two weeks in Monaco in a pied-a-terre on Avenue Princess Grace with views of the harbor; and a two week stay in a cottage in Holland in spring when the bulbs are in bloom. Other items include tickets to the Philadelphia Flower Show and a Society Hill apartment in which to stay during the show and a cottage in the Adirondacks.

Guests at the event may bid on an oriental-style carpet, hand-crafted Adirondack chairs, gift certificates at area restaurants, a catered dinner for eight guests, hand-knit seaters, antique silver and brass collectibles. Last year more than 200 contributors, individuals, small businesses and corporations donated items to the auction and more than $35,000 was raised for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association.

This year, the theme is on environmental education. Novemberfest is chaired by Marga Rowaan of Pennington, and the executive committee includes Grace Alexander, Charo Juega, Dottie Myers, Sonia Osborne, Janet Strathman and Flan Thompson.

The evening will include an open bar with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres from 5:30 to 7:30 when guests can bid on silent auction items and view the live auction items. Guitarist Mark Stewart will provide music during this time.

Cliff Perry of Classic Auctions will be in charge of the live auction following dinner. Tickets are available in different categories, starting at $85 per person for patrons, $150 for sponsors and $250 for benefactors.

For further information call 737-3735.

Children's Book Fair To Aid Nursery School

A children's book fair sponsored by Nassau Nursery School and Micawber Books will be held Saturday, November 16, from 9 to 8, and Sunday, November 17, from 11 to 5 at the book store, 110 Nassau Street.

The event will include visits from several authors and illustrators of children's books, including William McCleery, Sharon Dennis Wyeth, Margery Cuyler, Beverly Komoda, Dan Elish, Leslie Baker and Robert Byrd. An assortment of books for pre-schoolers and children of all ages will be available, along with books for the holiday season. Refreshments will be provided.

For a schedule of events call 921-8454.

Youth Forum

The annual Youth Forum for Princeton area high school students will be held on Wednesday, November 13, at noon at the Valley Road School in the large meeting room. The forum is sponsored by the Youth Concerns Committee, a community service of the United Way.

Students from The Hun School, The Lewis School, Princeton Day School, Princeton High School, and Stuart Country Day School have been invited. Also attending will be student representatives from existing youth activities in Princeton: Creative Theatre, HiTops, YMCA, YWCA, Corner House, the Downtown Teen Center, and others.

The purpose of the meeting will be to inform members of the Youth Concerns Committee of the needs and concerns of area high school students. The students will be asked to respond to questions from the Committee regarding global, community, and personal issues. The focus will be on the particular needs of their age group and what improvements they can suggest.

The moderator will be David Wise, a senior at Princeton Day School and a HiTops Teen Council Member.

This meeting for high school students will be followed by similar forums for the seventh and eighth graders and fifth and sixth graders. Members of the general public who are interested in programs and facilities for youth of this age are also invited to attend.

Contest Set at Scanticon For Gingerbread Houses

Scanticon-Princeton has announced its second annual gingerbread house competition. Houses entered will be displayed as a holiday village around a centrally placed Christmas tree in the lobby. The display will continue through Christmas Day.

Scanticon encourages the community to enter the contest in one of four categories: old-fashioned European Christmas; authentic reproduction of an American historic building; any theme; and children's gingerbread display.

Entry deadline is Wednesday, December 4. There is no cost to enter.

Winners of the contest will be announced Sunday, December 8, at Scanticon's Sunday brunch. Grand prize is a weekend at Scanticon including a deluxe guest room, Friday evening dinner in The Black Swan, Saturday night seafood buffet in Tivoli Gardens, Saturday breakfast and lunch, Sunday brunch and a bottle of champagne. Second prize is a weekend for two, including a deluxe guest room for one night, dining in The Black Swan, Saturday breakfast and lunch or Sunday brunch, and a bottle of champagne. Third prize is a dinner for two in The Black Swan. In the children's category, first prize is $50, second prize $35, and third prize $20.

To help gingerbread house bakers brush up on their skills, Scanticon is offering a free gingerbread house construction workshop on Wednesday, November 20, at 6:30 p.m. Participants are asked to make reservations for the workshop by November 18.

To receive entry forms, information on rules, or to register for the workshop, call 452-7800 and ask for Public Relations.

Santa Claus & Reindeer Return to MarketFair

Santa Claus and his live reindeer will return to MarketFair on Saturday, November 16, at 10:30 a.m.

The day of holiday events will kick off with the Westminster Conservatory Children's Choir singing the songs of the season at 10:30 a.m. This will be followed by Santa's grand entrance, pulled by a team of live reindeer. Rudolph and Santa's elves will lead the way to Princeton MarketFair.

Santa's reindeer will be on exhibit in Santa's Reindeer Barn from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, November 16, only.

Santa Claus will then be available for photos through December 24 during all mall hours. Photo packages are available for a nominal fee. Children visiting Santa will receive a free surprise gift.

Movement Workshop Set At the Arts Council

The Holistic Health Association will sponsor a one-session workshop called "Inside Dance Improv: Move How You Feel!" Tuesday at 8 at the Arts Council.

Through instruction, games and exercises novices will be guided in Princeton Dance Improv basics, while the most experienced can explore them in depth. Instruction will be balanced with improvisation. Participants should wear comfortable clothing and be ready for an evening of expressive movement, live music and group fun led by Catherine Judd.

Ms. Judd has been a teacher of self-actualization and music improvisation for more than 10 years. She founded and leads bi-monthly Dance Improvs.

The cost is $10 for HHAPA members and $12 for non-members. For more information call the HHAPA office at 924-8580.

fall of 1992. For the first time, the school will be open from 8:30 to 5:30, extending the day from 3 to 5:30.

The morning program will remain in place as well as the extended day until 3. The school hopes to keep the same children-to-teacher ratio of 7 to 1 in the afternoon as well as in the morning.

Pam Betterton, former director of the all-day care program at Pennington Montessori School, is in her third year as director of the University League Nursery School. She has been working with children all her adult life.

Disarmament Coalition Plans Annual Conference

The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will hold its 12th annual Interfaith Service for Peace and conference on Sunday, on the theme "Nuclear Weapons and the New World Disorder." The event is co-sponsored by the Princeton University Chapel and Teach Peace.

The Interfaith Service, scheduled for 11 a.m. in the Princeton University Chapel, will feature Prof. Harvey Cox of Harvard Divinity School as the preacher. Prof. Cox is the author of numerous books and articles, including the influential The Secular City, as well as The Seduction of the Spirit, which was nominated for the National Book Prize.

The conference will begin at 12:30 with a catered lunch, for which advance reservations are required, at the Woodrow Wilson School. At 1:30 Erwin Knoll, the editor of The Progressive magazine and commentator on The McNeil-Lehrer News Hour, will give the keynote address.

After a question/answer period and a brief break, the Conference will continue with a panel on "Halting Nuclear Proliferation" moderated by Ingrid Reed, assistant dean of the Woodrow Wilson School. Panelists will include Freeman Dyson, professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study; Mary McGrory, syndicated Washington Post columnist; Frank von Hippel, professor of public and international affairs at Princeton University; and Prof. Cox.

The concluding speaker at 4:15 will be Dr. Theodore Taylor, former deputy director for technology of the Defense Nuclear Agency and nuclear weapon designer.

In addition to the Coalition, the Chapel and Teach Peace, there are 78 religious, labor, academic, community, business, and women's groups that are co-sponsors of the event. Advance registration by November 1 is urged for the Conference and required for the luncheon. Costs are $10 for CND members; $15 for non-members; and $5 for students/low income. The luncheon is an additional $10.

To pre-register, or for additional information, call the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, 924-5022.

This year's conference is dedicated to the memory of the late Ira Silverman, who served as the chairperson of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament from 1984 to 1986.

Artworks to Benefit From Annual Fall Gala

Artworks, the Visual Arts School of Princeton and Trenton, will hold its annual fall benefit on Saturday, November 16, at Artworks, 19 Everett Alley, Trenton.

This year's event will feature food from the area's finest restaurants, live music for dancing, and an auction featuring paintings, prints, drawing, contemporary crafts, collectibles and more. Artworks has chosen a box theme for the evening event, which is entitled "Flip Your Lid."

The festivities will begin with a patron's champagne box supper at 6:30, followed by the benefit and auction at 8, which will feature a buffet of hor d'oeuvres and desserts. Advance reservations are required for both the supper and the auction.

The auction will include a variety of unique items, including an original one-of-a-kind box created by Princeton architect Michael Graves. Other offerings include two round-trip airline tickets to London, a handcrafted rosewood box from Greene and Greene Gallery of New Hope, Pa., a bronze cube sculpture from the Williams Collection of Princeton, an artist box filled with art supplies from Triangle Art, as well as paintings and prints by well-known area artists Judith Brodsky, James Colavita, Marge Chavooshian, Hannah Fink, Tom Malloy, Jeff Epstein, Susan Hockaday, Eiko Kahn, Robert Saxson, Henry Martin, Joan Needham and many others. In all, more than 65 artists have donated to the auction.

In addition to artwork, a number of area businesses have donated goods and services, and the evening promises more than 100 offerings to be auctioned or raffled off.

For more information and reservations, call Artworks at 394-9436.

Journal Publisher to Talk To Friends of Library

Peter R. Kann, chairman and chief executive officer of Dow Jones & Co., Inc. and publisher of The Wall Street Journal, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Friends of Princeton Public Library on Sunday, November 17.

The talk will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the library. His topic, "The Press," will reflect his more than 30 years experience in that field, from copy boy at The Princeton Packet to his present positions.

Mr. Kann, a native of Princeton, graduated from Harvard University in 1964 with an A.B. in government. While at college, he was political editor of The Harvard Crimson, and began his career with The Wall Street Journal as a summer intern. After graduation, he covered business and labor for The Journal's Pittsburgh bureau, spent a year in Los Angeles, and, in 1967, went to Vietnam as The Journal's reporter there.

Peter R. Kann

Based in Hong Kong, he became the roving Asia correspondent for the paper and, in 1972, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for Distinguished Reporting on International Affairs for his coverage of the 1971 India-Pakistan War.

The first publisher and editor of The Asian Wall Street Journal, Mr. Kann was also Dow Jones corporate representative in Asia before returning to the U.S. in 1979 as assistant to the chairman. He was made executive vice-president of Dow Jones in 1985, a director in 1987, and president and chief operating officer in 1989.

Mr. Kann's talk will be preceded by dessert and coffee and a short business meeting. The slate of officers presented for 1991-92 will be: president, Nancy Jones; vice-president, Lester Block; secretary, Therese Critchlow; treasurer, Archie Lummis. Everett Garretson, Gloria Halpern, Sarah Just, Eleanor Kuser and John O'Donoghue will be nominated for first terms as members of the council of Friends, and Lester Block, Irene Farley, John McLoughlin, and V. Gerald Wright for second terms.

Author's Visit Planned At Doubleday Book Shop

James P. Johnson, co-author with Timothy B. Benford of In Righteous Cornoge: The List Murders, will appear at a book-signing at the Doubleday Book Shop, Palmer Square West, at 5 p.m. on Saturday, November 16.

The signing will begin immediately following the Princeton-Yale game. Refreshments will be served.

Twenty years ago, in Westfield, John Emil List, a quiet accountant and Sunday school teacher, murdered his mother, wife, and three children and then disappeared for 18 years.

In their book, the authors reveal details of List's claustrophobic childhood, reclusive adult behavior, acts of destruction, and years of hiding.

Lawrenceville Alumnus Poet Receives Medal

James Merrill, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet and twice winner of the National Book Award, was awarded The Lawrenceville Medal at a formal ceremony held on the campus of the Lawrenceville School.

The medal, the highest honor the school may grant to an alumnus or alumna, was created by the Lawrenceville Alumni Association to be conferred annually to a graduate of the school who represents "the best that a Lawrentian may give his society and culture: brilliant, life-long work in a significant field of endeavor."

The medal is dedicated to the memory of Aldo Leopold, the distinguished environmentalist and author, who graduated from Lawrenceville in the Class of 1905. It was presented to Mr. Merrill by the Head Master, Josiah Bunting III, at a dinner for 850 Lawrenceville supporters, all of whom had donated $1,000 or more to the school in the last year.

Officials Are Ignoring A Dangerous Bridge

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter I have written to Joe Boyd, 152 Alexander Street:

I am writing to thank you for your letter to TOWN TOPICS of October 16. It was my wonderful son, Stuart, who was killed in that terrible acident on the canal bridge on Alexander Street in 1990. Of course Stuart's family and friends can never forget his all too short life and what happened that day, but it helps to ease the pain to know that there are others, whom one does not even know, who remember.

You stated so beautifully the fact that the authorities have virtually ignored what happened there. Stuart's father, Ted Todd, who still lives in Princeton, had to pass that bridge every day on his way to work.

He says they didn't even replace the upper board, but just put it back in place, and that they didn't even paint the lower board that they replaced until over a year later. Such actions point out how little the bridge authorities care about a promising young life which ended much too soon, or indeed, any human life.

Nothing can make Stuart's loss any easier to bear, but knowing that there are people like you out there who care, and who remember and who will call the people in authority to task for their stupidity, helps. It makes me feel that Stuart did not die to be forgotten after only 18 years of life — I still don't know why it had to happen, but at least it feels less hopeless when caring people remember.

Card Shopper Protests Inappropriate Sentiments

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I went shopping today for a birthday card for my sister. First I went to Hinkson's and looked at all the cards that were specifically for sisters. But I could not buy any of them because they were crude, insulting, or scatological. I protested to the owner and was told that these cards were good because they were printed on recycled paper.

So I went to Norman's and found more of the same. Of the 20 or so cards I looked at altogether, I was able to find only one that I could send to my sister. I protested to the clerk here too.

Why do the makers and sellers of these cards think that tastelessness and rudeness are what people want to send or receive? I am no supporter of Jesse Helms who wants to impose artistic censorship. I just wish that I could have a choice of the kinds of sentiments I feel when I send greetings.

If you agree with me, join me in telling the merchants that you too would like alternatives.

Halloween Parade Great Fun for All

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Hometown Halloween Parade sponsored by the Arts Council of Princeton was great fun for all. The children loved marching down the street behind the Princeton University band with the Princeton Hook and Ladder fire truck following, and the post-parade party on the green in front of the Nassau Inn was a tremendous success!

On behalf of the board of the Arts Council, I want to thank some of the people who made it all possible. Hanne Winarsky designed the flyer, and Collins Development Corp. paid for the printing. Janice Johnston led the Princeton University Marching Band at the head of the parade. Lt. Chuck Davall and other members of the police force directed traffic to allow the children to cross the street safely. Firemen from the Princeton Hook and Ladder Company escorted the parade and allowed youngsters in costume to examine the fire truck. The Nassau Inn provided all of the refreshments and set-up on the green, while McCarter Theatre donated tickets to the Christmas Carol production as prizes in the raffle.

Mayors Marvin Reed and Dick Woodbridge both pinned award ribbons on children participating, and Rip Pellaton portrayed the Town Crier once again. Many other volunteers helped in all phases of the parade.

The Hometown Halloween Parade is simply one of those events which makes Princeton a special town.

Thanks to everyone who participated, and congratulations to Luam Tesfai who won tickets to the McCarter Theatre production of Christmas Carol for her family!

Keep Library Where It Is: Epstein's Too Far Away

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following letter wos sent to the Citizens to Expand Library at Present Location:

Please keep library where it is. One of its assets — that a lot of us can walk there, then sit down and rest with good reading.

Did not Mr. Longstreth architect it in the first place so that a third story could be added if and when necessary? The ex-Epstein location is too far away and thus would discourage the noble art of reading.

Day for Institute Woods

On Sunday, Washington Crossing Audubon will hold "A Day for the Institute Woods," featuring a guided walk of the woods followed by a program. The activities are geared toward providing insights into what makes the Institute for Advanced Study lands worthy of the current preservation effort. State Green Acres funding of $7.5 million has been earmarked for acquisition of 550 acres of this property.

Carol Ann McCormick, formerly staff naturalist at Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve in Pennsylvania and Mountain Lakes Preserve, will lead a walk through the woods. It will begin at 1 p.m. at the end of Olden Lane, off Mercer Street. The walk will take about two hours and will focus on the various types of habitat in and around the woods. Participants should dress for the weather and wear comfortable shoes.

Dr. Henry S. Horn, professor of biology in the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology at Princeton University, will present an illustrated lecture on forest dynamics at 4 p.m. at the Lewis Thomas Laboratory auditorium on the Princeton University campus. With the Institute Woods as his laboratory, Dr. Horn has carefully documented changes in forest structure for more than 20 years. The program will be preceded by refreshments at 3:30. Parking is available adjacent to Lewis Thomas Lab, which is on Washington Road, and the building is handicapped-accessible.

Individuals may participate in one or both events, which are free. No reservations are required. For further information, call 683-1224 or 737-1189.

Community Players Open Season on Comic Note With Spirited Production of "My Three Angels"

ANGELS AT REST: Three convicts are the Christmas angels who rescue a beleagured French Guiena family in "My Three Angels," playing at Broadmead Theater this weekend and next. From left are Dave Violi, Dave Swartz and Alan Peterkofeky.

Princeton Community Players has opened its new season on a warm-spirited, comic note with an infusion of new talent and an accomplished production of Sam and Bella Spewack's My Three Angels, playing at the Broadmead Theater over the next two weekends.

Set in French Guiana in December of 1910, this Christmas fantasy depicts the beleaguered Ducotel family — father Felix, a merchant who "should have been a poet"; his more practical, long-suffering wife Emilie; and their amorous, eager-to-be-married daughter Marie Louise — all about to be ruined by their cold-blooded cousin Henri Trochard, who is arriving from France to remove Felix from his job.

But three convicts, on the scene as roof repairers, use their smooth, winning dispositions and razor-sharp wits to save the family just in time and to establish themselves as the three Christmas angels of the title.

News of the THEATRES

Arthur F. Miller, directing his first show for PCP, has put together a smooth and well-rehearsed ensemble production. Based on La Cuisine des Anges by Albert Husson, the play at times veers towards the sentimental and overly predictable — did Walt Disney ever adapt this for the screen? — but the characterizations here are captivating and the situation is filled with both sweetness and sharp irony. With the three angels in prison garb and the true scoundrel in a position of wealth and prominence, there may be no justice at the outset, but this fairy tale/Robin Hood story deftly works its magic.

"Inspired Accounting"

Alan Peterkofsky, the eldest of the title role triumvirate as Joseph, is the consummate businessman of the group. He takes Felix's account books in hand and applies his infallible techniques of salesmanship and his system of "inspired accounting." It is Joseph, an expert forger as well as swindler, who eventually pens the key codicil to the final will and testament of Henri Trochard. Mr. Peterkofsky, an experienced actor in his debut with PCP, creates a mellow, finely articulated, understated characterization with a shrewd comic touch. Notwithstanding some shakiness on opening-night lines, his winning character is a mainstay of the show.

David Swartz is a sunny-faced, confident Jules, the middle member of the trio. Mr. Swartz, a veteran of PCP and other area productions, takes full advantage of the rich, controlled texture of his voice and his variety of animated facial expressions in his confident portrayal of the warm-hearted, clever-handed convict.

The third and youngest of the angelic trio is Dave Violi as Alfred, whose poisonous pet snake Adolph provides the ultimate secret weapon in the battle of good over evil. Mr. Violi possesses the requisite good looks and a certain athleticism, though his lack of stage experience is evident in problems with diction and lack of clarity.

Blaise Ricci delivers a spirited and convincing portrayal of the happy, well-intentioned, hopelessly incompetent Felix Cotel, and Marybeth Long is appropriately tender-hearted and ingenuous as his daughter Marie Louise. Ms. Long's wide-eyed innocence and exaggerated sentimentality serve the characterization admirably. Wendy Way, as her mother Emilie, gives a less graceful and more somber, but solid performance.

The Scrooge

Henri Trochard, the Scrooge of the piece — he insists on spending Christmas Day with Felix taking inventory and going over the books — is fraught with evil in the strong portrayal by the sharp-featured, hirsute Jan Applebaum. Accompanying Trochard is his awkward, slow-witted nephew Paul (Doug Gildenberg), who is in the process of jilting Marie Louise in favor of a wealthy heiress.

Effective in supporting roles are Jenny Holan as the meddling, ambitious and ill-intentioned neighbor Madame Parole and Lee Arnold as the young lieutenant who arrives conveniently in the final act to fit neatly into the angels' scheme and the play's happy ending.

Costuming by Patricia A. Hibbert is painstaking and precise, with the aristocratic characters richly bedecked in elegant early 20th-century attire. The set design by Robert Raphael manifests similar care, thoroughness and imagination, as it simply and imaginatively evokes the French colonial setting of the Ducotel family living room with apt suggestions of the general store off left and the garden off right — all within the long and narrow confines of the Broadmead Theater.

The Princeton Community Players dedicates this production to the memory of Ted Hoagland, director, actor and PCP board member who died in July, and it is a worthy tribute. My Three Angels will play at Triangle's Broadmead Theater over the next two weekends, on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. with a 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday, November 10. Call 921-6314 for reservations and further information.

Special Revue to Mark Triangle Club Centennial

The Princeton Triangle Club will present its centennial revue, 100 Years and Still Kicking! at McCarter Theatre on Friday, November 15 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, November 17 at 7:30 p.m.

The production will feature 50 Princeton University undergraduates in a musical survey of Triangle Club's illustrious history. This production is the centerpiece of a weekend of festivities for 500 Triangle Club alumni returning to Princeton to celebrate the Club's centennial year (1891-1991).

Directed by Milton Lyon, who has directed most Triangle shows since 1955, 100 Years and Still Kicking! will feature selections from Spree de Corps (1955) to The Older the Better (1991). The performance will also feature a 30-minute medley covering the past 100 years.

Tickets are on sale for $15, $17, $18, $20 and $25, and may be reserved by calling the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000, Monday through Saturday, 9 to 6.

For the returning 500 Triangle Club alumni, the centennial celebrations begin on Friday, November 15, with a banquet replete with toasts and anecdotes. On Saturday, November 16, Triangle Club will be a noticeable presence at the Princeton-Yale football game in Palmer Stadium, where they will create the world's longest kick-line in hopes of putting Triangle Club into the Guinness Book of World Records.

On Sunday, November 17, a memorial service in remembrance of classmates and friends will be held at the Princeton University Chapel followed by a special performance when Triangle alumni, famous and infamous, will once again take to the McCarter stage to recreate the numbers they performed as students. This special performance is by invitation only.

Princeton University's Triangle Club is the oldest college musical-comedy troupe in the nation, and the only college group that creates an original, student-written musical which is presented on a national tour. Founded in 1883 as the Princeton College Dramatic Association, the Club decided in 1886 to perform only musical productions. In 1891, the Association performed its first student-written musical Po-ca-hon-tas, and in 1893, changed its name to the Triangle Club.

Triangle Club has many milestones in its 100-year history. In 1913, the Triangle Club performed Pursuit of Priscilla for President Woodrow Wilson at the White House. In 1930, the Club secured a permanent home by building McCarter Theatre. The 1935 Triangle show, Stags at Bay, featured the song "East of the Sun (and West of the Moon)", written by Brooks Bowman '36, the most popular and longest-lasting national hit ever produced by Triangle Club.

In 1948, the Triangle show, All in Favor, was televised, becoming the first college show to appear on the new medium of television. The Club also appeared on The Ed Sullivan Show from 1950 to 1957, usually performing the Triangle Club's trademark: the all-male kick-line. With the advent of coeducation at Princeton in 1969, Triangle shows finally featured women in women's roles.

Triangle Club boasts an impressive list of alumni. The roster includes authors F. Scott Fitzgerald, Booth Tarkington, Kenneth Clark and Edmund Wilson; actors Jimmy Stewart, Brooke Shields, Jose Ferrer, Myron McCormick, Remak Ramsey and Wayne Rodgers, Steven Bogardus and Frank Runyon; Broadway luminaries Joshua Logan, Bretaigne Windust (director of such classics as Life with Father, and Arsenic and Old Lace, Clark Gesner (author of the hit musical You're a Good Man Charlie Brown), and producer Roger Berlind (Annie, City of Angels). Another Triangle Alumnus is composer/lyricist Jeffrey Moss of Sesame Street ("Rubber Duckie") and Muppet movies fame.

For tickets to 100 Years and Still Kicking! call the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000, Monday through Saturday, 9 to 6. Triangle Club Alumni may still register for the centennial celebration weekend. For more information call the Triangle centennial weekend hot line at 1-800-521-2389.

ILLYRIA IN HOLLYWOOD: Princeton University seniors Louise Andrews snd Cariddi Narduili are cast in the Program in Theater snd Dance production of Shakespesre's "Twelfth Night" set in Hollywood in the 1920s. 'Twelfth Night' Readied By the Theater Program

The Princeton University Program in Theater and Dance will present Shakespeare's romantic comedy, Twelfth Night, beginning Thursday, November 14 at 8 in the Acting Studio at 185 Nassau Street. Performances will continue November 15-17 and 21-23. All performances are at 8 except for the Sunday, November 17 show which is a 2 p.m. matinee.

Twelfth Night is filled with the spirit of revelry which characterized annual celebrations on the eve of Epiphany in Elizabethan England. On this night duty and convention were forgotten and wild partying was the order of the day. Thoughts of the day after were banished, and as a rule, absolutely anything went. In his play Shakespeare created Illyria, a society ruled year-round by these hedonistic principles.

has found an American Illyria in the Hollywood of the 1930s. In that atmosphere of self-indulgence, escapism, enormous wealth and even larger egos, indeed, anything did go. Multiple marriages, bisexual liaisons and drunken debauchery were as commonplace on studio lots as in Shakespeare's play.

This production of Twelfth Night begins at Illyria Studios during the filming of a major costume epic. The film's two stars, Orsino and Olivia, are embroiled in an off-camera relationship that threatens to derail the film. He desires her to excess; she is mourning the deaths of her father and brother and devoted to a seven year regime of work without men or romance.

Enter Viola and Sebastian, twins who were separated by a storm on a trip. As they look for each other, they begin to find themselves. The mirth and merriment begin when Viola, disguised as a boy, falls in love with Orsino.

The production features a cast of 15 students. Tickets are $5 for students; $6 for non-students. For reservations call 258-3676.

Musical Revue Planned By Pennington Players

The Pennington Players will present Lies & Legends: the Musical Stories of Harry Chapin as their fall production. The show will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 15, 16 and 17, and also on November 22, 23 and 24, at the Pennington United Methodist Church, 60 South Main Street, Pennington.

With this production, the Pennington Players are introducing Friday night "Souper Theatre": the ticket price includes soup, bread, dessert and beverage. Saturday evening and Sunday matinee performances will be dessert theatre.

Produced by Betty Henninger and Bobbi Mendel, Lies & Legends is under the direction of Ray Pental with Pat Materson as musical director. A musical collection of Harry Chapin's work, it will be performed by Michelle McMullen, Bobbi Mendel, Craig E. Mills, Rob Rosenberger and Keith Swango.

A portion of the profits will be donated to the Trenton Area Soup Kitchen in Harry Chapin's name. For further information and reservations call 466-1010.

Comedy 'Deathtrap' Next On Theatre Intime Stage

Theatre Intime continues its 1991-92 season with a production of Ira Levin's murderous comedy, Deathtrap. Directed by Michael Sattler '92, Deathtrap will be performed from Thursday through Sunday and from Thursday, November 14, to Saturday November 16. All shows start at 8 at Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus.

The play opens with Sidney Bruhl, a successful author of Broadway thrillers, struggling to overcome a "dry" spell which has caused a string of failures and a shortage of funds. Sidney receives a script from a student in the seminar he has been conducting at a nearby college. He immediately recognizes that the piece is a potential Broadway hit.

With his wife's help, Sidney devises a plan to offer the student his partnership; the student quickly accepts. Thereafter, suspense mounts steadily as the plot begins to twist.

Mike Sattler directed The Mousetrap for Princeton Summer Theater 1991. Among the actors are veteran Intime performers Jim Banich and Bill Dawes, as Sidney and the student playwright, respectively.

Ticket prices are $10 general admission, $8 senior citizens/Princeton University employees, and $5 for students. For information and reservations call Theater Intime at 258-4950.

"Me and My Girl" Set By Franklin Villagers

Me and My Girl, the rags-to-riches musical comedy, will open Friday at 8 at the Villagers Theatre in Somerset, and will continue weekends through December 15.

This Cinderella tale has book and lyrics by L. Arthur Rose and Douglas Furber and music by Noel Gay.

Upon the death of the Earl of Hereford, his will stipulated that the family solicitor, Parchester (Jeffrey M. Babey), should seek out a son he sired by a wife he took in his youth. Such a son would be his sole heir and would inherit Hareford Hall, his title and his fortune.

Parchester finds the rightful heir in the person of Bill Snibson, (Rich Johnson) a poor and simple Cockney laborer. The will also instructs his sister, Maria, the Duchess of Dene (Pat Powers) and an old family friend Sir John Tremayne (Alan Semok), as executors of the will, to determine if the heir is fit and proper to assume his place as master of Hareford Hall.

The cast also features Patrick Andrae, Tara Bass, Kathy Bereschak, Janet Cantore-Watson, Val DiSanto, Bob Dumpert, Andrea Garen, David Goldstein, Melissa Lauren, John Menter, Michael Paternoster, Cyndi Seago, Alan Semok, Steve Sizer, Nadine Soldivieri and Michael Sylvester.

Me and My Girl is directed and choreographed by Susie Speidel and musically directed by Vincent P. Zito. Performances are on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30; Sundays, November 10, 24 and December 8 at 7:30; and Sundays, November 17, December 1 and 15 at 2:30. Tickets are $15 for all performances.

For further information or reservations call the theatre at (908) 873-2710.

The Villagers Theatre is located in the Franklin Township municipal complex at 475 DeMott Lane (between Easton Avenue and Amwell Road) in the Somerset section of Franklin Township.

WAITING FOR HER FAIRY GODMOTHER: Christine McCormick plays the title role in the Rogers and Hammerstein musical "Cinderella" to be performed at Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton. The production opens Friday and runs weekends through November 24.

Musical "Cinderella" At Mill Hill Playhouse

Class Act Productions of Trenton will present Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella at the Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery Streets in Trenton. The production opens Friday and runs weekends through November 24.

The cast includes Christine McCormick of Lawrenceville as Cinderella and Jerry Dunn of Trenton as the Prince. The company is under the direction of Donna A. Lee with musical direction by Jeanne LaPolla.

Performances will be Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 and Sunday afternoons at 3. Call 989-3038 for ticket information or reservations.

Play About a Teacher At Stuart Day School

The Prime of Miss Jean Brody will open at Stuart Country Day School on Thursday and run through Sunday. The play, written by Jay Allen Presson, is based on the novel by Muriel Spark and takes place in Edinburgh, Scotland in the 1930s.

Because of the number of strong performers who auditioned for this production, the play has been double cast. The audience on Thursday night will see Rebecca Clark in the role of Jean Brodie, and on Friday night there will be a completely new cast, with Sarah Taylor playing the lead. Two actors from Princeton Day School will appear in the same roles for the run of the play.

Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7:30, with a Saturday matinee at 2. Tickets are $7 which includes dessert served at intermission. For reservations, call 921-2330.

"Tartuffe" in French

The Beauclair French company of touring actors will make a stop at Princeton Day School as it brings its production of Moliere's Tartuffe to the Herbert McAneny Theatre on Wednesday, November 13. Curtain time is at 7:30.

A company which performs and teaches at Middlebury College in Vermont, the acting group tours the country in the autumn bringing French poetry and drama to university and school audiences. This year the actors have chosen Moliere's play about church hypocrites, which brought the author a warning from King Louis XIV to consider certain subjects sacred.

The performance is open to the public. Donations of $9 for students and teachers and $11 for the general public will be accepted at the door.

Reservations may be made by calling Marie-Helene Davies at PDS, 924-6700 or 921-7641.

California Ensemble To Perform New Works

The Composers' Ensemble at Princeton will present the seven-member California E.A.R. Unit in a program of newly-composed works Saturday evening at 8 at Taplin Auditorium in Fine Hall on the Princeton University campus. Co-sponsored by the Department of Music and The Friends of Music at Princeton, the concert is open to the general public without admission charge.

The California E.A.R. Unit was founded in March, 1981 by a group of Los Angeles performers and composers with the goal of developing the first full-time, communally-directed repertory ensemble for new music in that area. In the eight years since its inception, the California E.A.R. Unit has become recognized as one of the most important new music ensembles in the country.

THE CALIFORNIA E.A.R. UNIT, as this ensemble is called, will present a free concert of new works by various composers Saturday at 8 in Taplin Auditorium. The concert is sponsored by the Composers' Ensemble at Princeton, the Friends of Music at Princeton and the Department of Music. An open rehearsal and colloquium is scheduled for Friday at 1, also in Taplin.

Known for its versatility, the E.A.R. Unit's repertory ranges from the most demanding works for the concert hall to music and theatre, often featuring works by the ensemble's award-winning composer/performers. The Unit combines a basic instrumentation of flute, clarinet, keyboards, percussion, violin, and 'cello with unusual doublings including voice, panpipes, and electronic media.

From the outset, the E.A.R. Unit has worked closely with composers in the preparation of its music. Many of the ensemble's concerts have been heard on American and National Public Radio, and E.A.R. Unit broadcasts of American works have been chosen for the International Rostrum of Composers. The ensemble has also been featured in video projects, most notably a documentary of music by West Coast composers produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The concert will commence with ... hove ever lived ... Anyone ... (1991) by Stan Link, and continue with A Manner of Speoking by Richard Argosh. The first portion concludes with Murphy Nights (a codo to "Johnny Sprays") by Arthur Jarvinen, who is the Unit's percussionist.

After intermission, the Unit will offer the East Coast premiere of None but the Lonely Flute (1991), written for the E.A.R. Unit's flutist Dorothy Stone by Milton Babbitt, William Shubael Conant Professor of Music, Emeritus, at Princeton. The program concludes with The Key to Songs (1985) by American composer Morton Subotnick.

The concert will be preceded on Friday by an open rehearsal and colloquium presented by the California E.A.R. Unit in Taplin Auditorium at 1 p.m. The public is invited.

Taplin Auditorium is located in Fine Hall, at the corner of Ivy Lane and Washington Road. For further information, call 258-5000.

PU Football Concert With Yale Glee Club

Marking the final appearance together of their two conductors, both of whom are retiring after this season, the Princeton and Yale Glee Clubs will present tbe annual Princeton-Yale Football Concert on Friday, November 15, at 8:30 in Richardson Auditorium on the Princeton campus.

The concert will begin with a revival of an old tradition: the two groups singing together. When Yale conductor Fenno Heath steps on stage to conduct Randall Thompson's Alleluio, he will be well on the way towards completing his 39th year as director of the Yale Glee Club. This exceeds by some eight years the previous record compiled by his predecessor, Marshall Bartholomew. Mr. Heath received two bachelor's degrees from Yale and then stayed on to study composition with Paul Hindemith and Quincy Porter.

Having sung under Bartholomew's direction in the Yale Glee Club, he took over in 1953 when "Barty" retired.

After the Thompson piece Yale will then sing its first group: Ave Moria and Gloria by Josquin Des Prez, Durufle's Ubi coritas, a setting of John Donne's At the round eorth's imagined corners by Heath, and the Brahms motet Schaffe in mir, Gott, ein rein Herz.

Princeton conductor Prof. Walter Nollner will then conduct the Glee Club in performances of Palestrina's motet Tu es Petrus, and three partsongs by Joseph Haydn. A 1943 graduate of Berkeley, Prof. Nollner returned to the Berkeley campus in 1946 for work leading to his master's degree in 1950 and to conduct the Glee Club and Treble Clef Society (women's glee club).

In 1950 he joined the Department of Music at Williams College and conducted the Glee Club there from 1951 to 1958. He was called to Princeton in 1958. Prof. Nollner will complete his 34th year as conductor of the Princeton Glee Club this year and has been director of music in the University Chapel since 1973.

After the intermission Yale will return with Heath arrangements of several songs, including a medley of football songs. Princeton's second group will be made up of folksongs that have been sung by the Glee Club on its foreign tours as well as at home. Mr. Nollner's arrangement of the "Princeton Football Medley" will conclude the group, and the concert will end with the Yale and Princeton alma maters, Bright College Yeors and Old Nassau.

Tickets for the concert are priced at $6 general admission ($2 for students and senior citizens). They may be obtained by phoning 258-3048 or 258-5000.

Tales Told with Music By Voices Ensemble

Voices, an ensemble of professional vocalists, will celebrate its fifth anniversary with "Song and Story," a program of unusual narrative and poetic works set to music. The program will be held Saturday, November 16, at 8 p.m. at All Saints' Church and features several area artists.

Included in the program is Historio di Jephte, by Giacomo Carissimi. Jephte tells the tale of an Old Testament warrior king who pledges to sacrifice the first person he sees after winning a crucial battle, and his agony when he realizes that the person to be sacrificed is his daughter.

The role of Jephte will be sung by Princeton resident Gregory Lorenz, who also performs with the Metropolitan Opera chorus. Michelle Disco, a Kingston soprano, portrays the obedient daugbter. Karen Clark Young, a member of the Waverly Consort who makes her home in Hopewell, takes the part of the Historicus or narrator.

Also on the program is Igor Stravinsky's Contato on Anonymous 15th and 16th Century Lyrics. This piece, performed with a woodwind ensemble and cello, uses a verse and refrain form. David Price, tenor from Philadelphia, and Candace Sassaman, soprano from Pennsauken, perform solos, while the women of Voices sing the refrains.

Casey at the Bot, a baseball narrative by the New York composer William Schuman, concludes the program. The piece tells the tale of the mighty Casey's last chance as the Watchman, fans, the umpire, the manager and Casey's girlfriend see baseball history unfold.

War and Peace Are the Themes of Pro Musica Concert

War seems to be an ever-present condition in world history. Perhaps this is one of the reasons why certain works, such as Benjamin Britten's War Requiem, have achieved lasting immortality and audience appeal — each generation can find its own frame of reference in the text, regardless of the "war" being discussed in the work.

Minnesota composer Libby Larsen, an outspoken advocate of composers and the performing arts in general, has written a "war requiem" for the '80s generation. Coming Forth into Day, written in collaboration with Egyptian First Lady Jehan El Sadat in the early 1980s has only been performed twice, but certainly holds relevance for all audiences within American society.

This work was premiered in Minnesota, and received its East Coast premiere on Friday night by Princeton Pro Musica. For this performance in Richardson Auditorium, Music Director Frances Slade paired the Larsen work with a composition of peace: the Requiem of Gabriel Faure. These two works presented a balanced program with contrasting textures of words and musical styles.

The Richardson stage was full to overflowing with players and singers for this performance. The men of Pro Musica seem to be greater in number this year, albeit with the perennial problem of not enough tenors. Ms. Slade built the drama of the work from its opening measures, and paid particular attention to the tapering of phrases within the very full orchestral sound. The soprano sound was especially well-blended and ethereal, as is fitting for Faure. Some of the biting contrasts of the opening Introit were hard to achieve within the scope of Pro Musica's capabilities, but the effect and intent were there. The orchestra played particularly well under the singers in the second movement Offertorium, which was one of the more mesmerizing sections of the mass.

Quality Soloists

As has been her tradition, Ms. Slade did not skimp on the quality of the soloists in either of the works on this program. It became evident in the second half of the concert that soprano Elisabeth Comeaux was selected for the Larsen piece, but she also sang an effective Pie Jesu in the Faure. Baritone David Arnold was able throughout the evening to change his musical style and approach (and certainly visual expression) to match the mood of the music which he was singing at the particular time. He perfectly emulated the warmth and reassurance of the "Hostias" section of the Offertorium ("Unto thee we offer ... this sacrifice ... this prayer and praise") and was sufficiently trembling in the Libera me section ("Deliver me, Lord, from death eternal"). Always regal and in control, Mr. Arnold also adapted well to the texts of the Larsen piece.

Ms. Comeaux carried much of the burden of solo singing in Coming Forth into Day; widely skipping lines and musical phrases that end up in the stratosphere called all of her vocal abilities into play, especially in a haunting poem by Beulah Steele Jenness (Posthumous Decoration for Valor).

As well as the chorus was trained in the Faure, it was quite apparent that more extensive time had been spent drilling the ensemble on the Larsen piece. Ms. Larsen's style seemed to suit the chorus vocally, but her composition abounded in very tricky rhythms. Diction was obviously a key priority in the preparation of this work, and every word was audible within the fiber of the musical web. The men's sections sounded very full in sections in which they were in unison and the tenor section often had its moment to shine.

If there was a vocal failing, it may have been that the ethereal soprano sound which worked so well for the Faure needed a bit more crunch for some sections of the Larsen, especially in certain pianissimo sections in which more sound was necessary to cut through the orchestra. However, the sopranos more than proved their worth in the alarmingly high vocal tessitura of the closing movement, and to their credit, the singers never sounded as if they were struggling with the musical range.

Simplicity and Irony

Another high point of the evening was Sue Ellen Page's Bach Choir of Nassau Presbyterian Church, which participated in small sections of the Larsen piece. These young singers (this is an ensemble comprised of children) were extremely disciplined in their musical preparation and added an obviously intended air of simplicity and irony to certain texts — it was clearly no compositional accident that the children's chorus was assigned the poetic verse "There was a little man and he had a little gun and its bullets were made of lead." Although presented in nursery-rhyme style, these words, when sung by young singers, obviously had deeper implications.

Libby Larsen has been called "a composer for our time." She is clearly one of the more outspoken advocates of contemporary American music and is one of the true leaders in the movement to keep contemporary composition alive. Her work deserves to be championed, and Ms. Slade obviously went through a great deal of trouble and preparation to present this work, including applying for a grant designed to encourage performance of newly-composed choral works otherwise destined for the shelf.

In this performance, Ms. Slade teased her singers and audience with the familiarity of the Faure Requiem, and then stretched them with the intricacies of a complex contemporary piece. This method seems to be her style as a conductor, and it is one which keeps audiences coming back year after year to hear Pro Musica perform.

Princeton Pro Musica will present Handel's Messiah on December 20 and 22 at Richardson Auditorium and December 21 at Rutgers University. Ticket information can be obtained by calling 683-5122.

British String Quartet To Play at Richardson

The Chilingirian String Quartet with pianist Panayis Lyras will be heard on Thursday, November 14, at 8 at Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall on the Princeton University campus. The program is the second event in the Chamber Masterworks Series of the Princeton University Concerts.

Currently celebrating its 20th anniversary season, the Chilingirian String Quartet has become one of the most active chamber music ensembles on the international scene, with tours to 30 countries on six continents this year alone. The Quartet was formed in London in 1971, with Sigmund Nissel of the Amadeus Quartet as mentor.

The program will open with Haydn's String Quartet in E-Flat Major, Opus 71, No. 3, and continue with Benjamin Britten's String Quartet No. 2 in C Major Opus 36.

After intermission, the Quartet will be joined by pianist Panayis Lyras for a performance of the rarely-performed Piano quintet of Bela Bartok.

Tickets, priced at $23, $20, $15, and $2 for students, are available at the Richardson Auditorium box office, 258-5000, open Monday through Friday, noon to 6, and until 8 the night of the concert.

Weekend-Wear Clothing From The Gipsy Horse

What is The Gipsy Horse, people have been asking? Newspaper ads have tantalized readers with intriguing intimations. Now, within the past few weeks, customers have been discovering this hot new clothing store at 24 Witherspoon Street for themselves.

Asked many times about the unusual name of her shop, owner Wendy Wandelt replies, "When I was in England years ago, I came across a town that marked the site of The Gipsy Horse Fair. It has its origins in 15th-century England, and the name stayed with me."

WONDERS FOR THE WARDROBE: "We offer top quality merchandise that can be found in the popular mail order catalogs, but we are very discounted, 30% to 60% off price. That is our premise." Owner Wendy Wandelt, Colleen Allen, and manager Melissa Benford of The Gipay Horse at 24 Witherspoon Street have been very buay introducing customers to the variety of men'a and women'a caaual-wear clothing at their new shop.

"The idea for the shop just evolved," she explains. "Like everyone else, I was inundated with catalogs. This seemed a good way to provide quality at good prices. We offer extremely good value."

Mrs. Wandelt's idea was to offer name brand clothing from the popular mail order catalogs at very discounted prices. The merchandise includes men's and women's casual weekend-wear, both first quality and irregulars.

Mrs. Wandelt initially tried out her idea in Lambertville, opening the first Gipsy Horse there last year. It was so successful that she branched out, establishing another at Beach Haven at the shore last summer.

Having grown up in Princeton and familiar with the area, she decided this would be a promising location for another store. Also, her former career as a licensed stockbroker has given her an added insight into the business operation.

"I had thought about this for a long time," she notes. "Although this is a different business — a retail operation — it is still business. It's buying and selling. We have targeted a specific market, weekend-casual wear with a classic look, which appeals to all ages. It's for everyone."

Indeed, since the store's opening on October 17, customers have run the gamut in age, with men and women equally enthusiastic about the full range of merchandise.

A Good Locotion

Reports manager Melissa Benford, "Customers say they are elated that we are bere. We're getting a lot of parents and professionals, as wel students. We are very encouraged, and this is a good location. There is lots of walk-in business."

"We have clothes for men and women, including shirts, pants, jeans, blazers, sweaters and outerwear," says Mrs. Wandelt. "We also carry dresses and some lingerie."

Accessories include unisex wool felt brimmed hats, belts, socks, neckties, wool scarves, and there is also a selection of shoes and boots.

Customers, who have been flocking to the store, as word-of-mouth bas spread, are buying some of everything, report Mrs. Wandelt and Ms. Benford.

"The barn jacket has been a very hot item," they comment. "It is versatile, epitomizes the casual look, and all ages like it. The Polar Light parkas and jackets are very popular and colorful, too, and we also have first quality Shetland sweaters in a variety of colors selling for $18. These are a wonderful buy."

Accessories have been in demand, in particular, the brightly patterned ties. It is not unusual for customers to come in and buy three at a time. Available in silk and cotton, they sell for $15 and $12.50 respectively — dramatic price reductions.

Notural Fibers

Natural fibers, including cotton and wool, are emphasized at The Gipsy Horse, and Mrs. Wandelt notes sbe offers both cotton and wool sweaters. "I tend to buy more solids," shc says, "not a lot of bright prints. That is not our look. Rather, I try to find classic designs in good colors and enduring styles. This is true for all the merchandise.

"I love the buying and the business end," she adds. "I love to bear customers say they are getting good value. Also, we add merchandise twice a week, so there is always a big selection."

Women's sizes are available from 4 to 16, and men's are generally small, medium and large. Prices cover a wide range, including $4.50 for Prima Natural socks (typically $12), $10 for women's stretch pants, $24 for rugby shirts (typically $35 to $40), $26 for first quality blue jeans, $24.50 for silk blouses, $19 to $21 for men's shirts, and $19 to $21 for braided leather belts.

"We have cotton turtlenecks for $10 that are $20 elsewhere," says Mrs. Wandelt," and we also have velvet-like burgundy and navy holiday dresses that were $79 for $39.50, as well as $98 blazers for $59.

Gift certificates are also provided.

The attractive shop with its appealing decor has four dressing rooms and a pleasant, informal atmosphere. Customers are encouraged to browse, but they are always offered assistance, if they wish.

"Customer service is very important here," says Mrs. Wandelt. "We help them all we can. We have strong management and a strong staff.

"I don't think there is another place just like this," she adds. "I feel we have filled a niche in the community. We really put a lot of thought in the store. Also, I don't want to take all the credit for this. My sister, Catherine Parr, and I started it together. She manages the Lambertville store.

"And we are so encouraged, we are just about to open another one in Haddonfield. This is a very exciting and busy time for us. We have been lucky to expand in this environment."

The Princeton Gipsy Horse is open Monday through Saturday 10 to 6, Thursday and Friday until 8, and Sunday 12 to 5.

Auto Sales and Service At Belle Mead Garage

Do you remember your first car? Like a first bike, it lingers in the mind, despite the passage of the years. Maybe it dates back far enough to have bad a rumbleseat, or perbaps it was that never-to-be-forgotten '65 Mustang convertible, or maybe it was the special vintage model you worked bours and bours on, fine-tuning the engine, and polishing the finisb until it sbone.

Christopher (Kip) and Roy (Murph) Higgins understand how it is with people and their automobiles. The owners of Belle Mead Garage, located at Route 206 and Station Square in Belle Mead, have no trouble recalling the thrill of owning their own first cars.

In Murph's case, it was a 1951 red Plymouth convertible. "I loved that car," be smiles. "It probably had more meaning for me than any other I've ever owned."

Kip remembers the enjoyment and satisfaction of hours spent restoring his first vehicle to perfect working order. "My first car was really a truck, actually the shop vehicle. I was 16, and it was a '64 Dodge pickup. I completely rebuilt it."

With such special memories intact, the Higgins take particular pleasure in their work today — selling and servicing cars. There is additional pride, as well, in the knowledge that their family business remains strong, its continuity uninterrupted through the years.

"This is a real family operation," explains Kip. "It was started by my grandfather, Leroy Higgins, in 1927. My father, Roy, took it over in 1959, and I came on full-time in 1982. We both grew up in the business, and I started working on cars when I was 14. Both my father and I work on cars today, as well as selling them."

Chryslers Since 1935

Originally a service station and new car distributorship, the garage became a Chrysler dealership in 1935, and has remained so ever since.

New cars include Chryslers and Plymouths, and there is also a large selection of used cars. Most of these tend to be vehicles the Higgins have serviced, but there is also a variety of makes and models other than those of Chrysler Corporation.

When people choose a car — whether new or used — they emphasize price and style, says Kip. "Roomier space is important, and generally, people want a purpose vehicle. On the other band, the convertible is popular again, and this is a pleasure vehicle.

"The most popular color over the years has been dark red," he adds. "Right now, black cherry, a deep red, is very popular. White is also in demand. It's good for safety, and it is easier to keep clean."

He notes that a recent feature that has become a very bot item is the air bag. More and more customers are requesting them, and he says that all domestic Chrysler cars now have them.

FAMILY TRADITION: Roy (Murph) and Christopher (Kip) Higgins are the second and third generation to operate Belle Mead Garage at Route 206 in Belle Mead. The Chrysler-Plymouth Dealership offers new and used cars, as well as auto service. "Service is our specialty. It's our main concern," notes the father-son team.

In response to the concern of some, that air bags could inflate unintentionally, be says, "There are safety measures to prevent this. They are full-proof, and will not pop out unless there is a collision. They are a big factor in preventing injuries."

Customers who are curious about air bags should stop in at the Belle Mead Garage showroom, where an inflated air bag in on display in a new Plymouth Sundance.

Murph adds that the latest auto accoutrements are all in demand today. "People want a lot more equipment now. It used to be just power windows; now it's everything. And once people have all these things, they always want them again."

Used Cars, Too

New cars account for 60% of the garage's sales and used cars 40%, says Kip, adding that customers are usually especially careful about choosing a second-hand car. "People really check them out. Mileage is a big consideration. It can be anywbere from 30,000 to 75,000, and people buy all across the board. It depends on how you are going to use the car.

"Also," he continues, "we drive all the used cars at least 30 miles and check them very carefully. In most cases, too, they are cars we have serviced."

He notes that customers will ask for foreign used cars, as well, and these are also available.

"However, people are certainly buying American," he remarks. "American cars can compete with foreign cars for service and reliability. And American cars have better warranties."

In any case, the Higgins stand behind their automobiles, whether new or used, foreign or domestic. "With newer used cars, we can transfer the original warranty, depending on the age," explains Kip. "With older cars, we will offer a three-month or 3,000 mile guarantee. Also, primarily, we service cars that people bave bought here."

He points out that with the advances in technology, servicing can be more complex than in the past. "Today, you really have to go to school to learn to service cars. We send our employees to school 200 bours each year. A lot of it is electrical now, and it's complicated."

Complexity has brought improvements — or vice versa — he adds. "For example, fuel injection bas been an improvement. It's more economical and very efficient. It makes for a lot smoother running car. Also, we have all front wheel drive cars. These are better handling cars, and are especially good in poor weather conditions. They are also fuel efficient.

"Of course, the newer cars have much cleaner emissions and are safer for the environment."

Regular Maintenance

Complexity notwithstanding, the most common servicing jobs continue to be regular maintenance, such as oil changes, tune-ups, brakes and tire checks and replacements.

"People don't always remember to check these, so we send out service reminders," he comments. "The oil should be changed every 4,000 or 5,000 miles or at least twice a year, tire rotation and alignment every 10,000 miles, and a tune-up every 15,000 to 20,000 miles.

"Also, we start winterization around Labor Day. We'll check the Antifreeze, belts, hoses, and battery."

An oil change (including a check of belts and hoses) runs $25, tire rotation with balance $18, and a tune-up $75 and up, be notes.

Belle Mead Garage has bad a loyal following over the years. Customers, often including different generations within the same family, have responded to the personal service and attention the Higgins offer. A long-time female customer comments on the courteous service to women. "They are really very nice to women. They serve you and treat you with equality. They never take advantage if you don't know something."

Another customer of long-standing emphasizes integrity and dependability. "Murph Higgins and the folks at Belle Mead Garage are outstanding people. Tbeir word is their bond, and a handshake is their guarantee of dealings that are bonorable throughb and through."

A unique aspect of the Belle Mead Garage is the combination office and showroom. It lacks the typical sleek look of many car dealerships, and is instead characterized by a more informal and comfortable atmosphere, including well-used antique furniture, acquired by Murph Higgins and his father before him.

The establishment of such an atmospbere is important to the Higgins. "We bave stayed small," remarks Kip. "We service the customers' cars, and they know they can depend on us. We enjoy the customers and trying to please them. We offer personal service. For instance, we provide free loaner cars, if needed.

"We are a family business," be continues," and every aspect of the business we do ourselves. We want to carry on this tradition, and we want people to come and see for themselves. They won't know about us unless they come in to see us."

Belle Mead Garage is open Monday, Thursday and Friday 8 to 9, Tuesday and Wednesday 8 to 6, Saturday 8 to 4, and other evenings by appointment.

Young German Pianist To Give Recital Here

Twenty-two-year-old German pianist Andreas Bach will make his Princeton debut at Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall on Monday, November 18, at 8 p.m. The concert is the second in this year's "Richardson Recital Series" presented by Princeton University Concerts.

For his Princeton program, Mr. Bach will begin with the Out of Doors Suite (1926) by Hungarian composer Bela Bartok and continue with the Sonata in F Major K.322, of Mozart. The first portion of the program concludes with the Ballade No. 2 in F Major, Opus 38, by Chopin. After intermission, Mr. Bach has chosen the rarely-performed Sonata No. 3 in F Minor, Opus 5, of Johannes Brahms.

Tickets, all unreserved seating and priced at $17, and $2 for students, are available through the Richardson Auditorium box office at 258-5000.

Moscow Virtuosi to Play At McCarter Theatre

Music-at-McCarter continues on Monday, November 18, at 8 with a performance by the Moscow Virtuosi under the direction of violinist Vladimir Spivakov.

The program will include Bach's Concerto for Violin in A, BWV 1041, and Suite for Orchestra No. 3 in D, BWV 1086; Schnittke's Sonata for Violin and Orchestra; and Shostakovich's Two Pieces, Op. 11.

Formed in 1979 by Mr. Spivakov, the Moscow Virtuosi has become an eminent chamber ensemble. The orchestra members are soloists drawn in many cases from the principal chairs of the major orchestras of the Soviet Union. The group has toured extensively throughout the world.

Mr. Spivakov made his New York debut in 1975 and is viewed as a musician of impeccable taste and flawless technique. He first brought the Moscow Virtuosi ensemble to American in 1987, where it was well received as "first rate string

Soprano to Perform Concert of Sacred Music

Karen Hansen, soprano, accompanied by Paul Hofreiter, will present A Program of Sacred Music Sunday, November 17, at 4 as part of the Westminster Conservatory Faculty Recital Series. The concert will take place in Bristol Chapel at Westminster Choir College.

The program will include works by R. Vaughn Williams, Paul Hofreiter, Samuel Barber, Leonard Bernstein, and Ned Rorem. A selection of spirituals will also be performed.

Mr. Hofreiter attended the Juilliard School, where he received his undergraduate and graduate degrees in composition. His compositions include symphonies, piano and organ sonatas, musical comedy scores, operas, cantatas and an oratorio.

He is director of the instrumental program at The Lawrenceville School and is also studying theology at Concordia Theological Seminary in Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Westminster Conservatory is the community music school of Westminster Choir College. Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students or senior citizens.

For more information, call 921-7100, extension 308.

Baritone In Recital Of American Songs

Elem Eley, baritone, will present A Recital of American Song to begin the Westminster Choir College Faculty Recital Series on Sunday, November 17, at 8 in Bristol Chapel.

Mr. Eley will be accompanied by Martin Hennessey. The program will include songs by Stephen Foster, Theodore Chanler, Charles Ives, Ned Rorem, and adaptations by Aaron Copland.

Mr. Eley is associate professor of voice at Westminster Choir College.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. For more information, call 921-7100, extension 308.

ART

ON EXHIBIT: Watercolors by Robin J. White will be on display in the University League Gallery during November. Shown here is a painting of a suburban landscape.

New Exhibit to Open At Old Barracks Museum

A new exhibit of patriotic art entitled "Flags, Muskets and Patriots" will open at the Old Barracks Museum on Veterans' Day, Monday. It will continue through January 5 to commemorate the important historical events of the winter of 1776-77 — Washington crossing the Delaware, the two Battles of Trenton, and the Battle of Princeton.

The exhibit will showcase two historical paintings which are new acquisitions to the Old Barracks permanent collection and are made possible by a grant from the Philadelphia-based HFO Foundation. Washington and General Greene by George Whiting Flagg, has been exhibited at the Morris Museum in Morristown and was published in two influential early histories of the American Revolution. Washington after the Battle of Trent-town December 27, 1776 was painted by the Philadelphia artist Edward A. Goodes. Both paintings date from the mid-19th century.

"Flags, Muskets and Patriots" replaces the current exhibit "Work in Progress: The Restoration of the Old Trentown Barracks" which will close Friday.

The Old Barracks is a museum of the War for Independence and Life in Revolutionary New Jersey, located in Trenton's capitol complex. It is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 to 5, and Sundays from 1 to 5. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for senior citizens and students, and $.50 for children under 12. Parking is available in the State House lots behind the Museum. For more information, call 396-1776.

Exhibits

The Brazen Serpent, by Maarten van Heemskerck, will be the subject of a gallery talk Friday at 12:30 at The Princeton University Art Museum. Museum docent Annette Merle-Smith will discuss the mid-16th-century Netherlandish painting, comparing it with other works on exhibition in the same gallery. The talk will be repeated on Sunday at 3.

"I am planning to relate the Heemskerck to other works in the room," said Ms. Merle-Smith, who will compare the painting to two versions of the famous antique sculpture, the Laocoon, by anonymous 16th- and 17th-century Italian artists, and to a pen and ink drawing by van Heemskerck in the current museum exhibition, "Old Master Drawings from the Collection of Joseph F. McCrindle."

The next gallery talk will be given on Friday, November 15, at 12:30 p.m., when Abraham Kisch, Museum docent, will talk about Beta Tau, a painting by abstract expressionist artist Morris Louis.

Scanticon-Princeton Conference Center hotel will hold an art exhibition from November 7 to December 3. Entitled "Reflections on Art: Prints, Paper and Photographs," it will feature the work of noted artist Philip Pearlstein as well as that of seven other well-known artists, and will present ways artists manipulate, view, and use paper to create art. The exhibition is free and open to the public.

Featured works are the majestic Greek temples by Philip Pearlstein; the microcosm of ancient American Indian petroglyphs by Denise Mullen; fragile, ethereal paper fans by Czashka Ross; intricate vestments in handmade paper by Diane Price; and monumental paper sculptures by Joan Needham. Collage artists Kathy Caraccio, Carol Rosen and Kathleen Schulz each present individualized works created through diverse approaches in media, vision and method.

The exhibition will be open seven days a week. It is located in the Scanticon lobby.

The Norbert Considine Gallery at Stuart Country Day School will display collages by Karen Lears which appeared in the recently published Women Writers of Latin America: Intimate Histories. Her work, the original visual portion of the book, will be on view from November 15 through 26, in conjunction with Stuart's annual book fair, from November 20 to 22. There will also be a gallery talk on Friday, November 15, at 1 p.m. which will be open to the public.

Ms. Lears, whose daughters Adin and Rachel attend Stuart, collaborated with editor Magdalena Garcia-Pinto in creating collages to accompany the text. The works, which have been referred to as "illuminations," respond to the interviews conducted by Ms. Garcia-Pinto, forming images that relate metaphorically to the lives of these remarkable women writers.

Watercolors by Robin J. White will be shown in the University League Gallery, 171 Broadmead, during the month of November.

Ms. White painted impressionistic watercolor landscapes wherever she lived, from the Island of Guam to London, England. In recent years, she has concentrated on scenes of suburbia.

Ms. White has exhibited in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area, where she now lives, and is represented in the American Artist Gallery in Philadelphia. This is her first show in the Princeton area.

An exhibition of the work of three artists will be held at The Studio Gallery, at Ebony & Ivory, 57 Princeton Avenue, Hopewell, from November 16 to December 11.

Tricia Catenese will exhibit welded steel wire sculpture; Lucy Graves McVicker will show watercolors and monotypes; and Marie Sturken will exhibit handmade paper and monotypes.

Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 9 to 5 and Sunday by appointment.

"THE BRAZEN SERPENT," an oil on panel by Maarten van Heemskerck, will be the topic of a gallery talk Friday at 12:30 and Sunday at 3 at the Princeton University Art Museum.

Led by Defense, Tiger Football Contains Columbia; But Injuries to Key Players Are Beginning to Mount

Last Saturday's football game between Princeton and Columbia Universities could have been avoided for just 29 cents. Twenty-nine cents is all it would have cost Lion head coach Ray Tellier to purchase a postage stamp with which to mail in the results of the game. If he had dropped it in any New York City mailbox by last Thursday afternoon, it probably would have arrived at Princeton in time to call the game off.

But Columbia showed up at Princeton's doorstep on Saturday, and proceeded to get pummeled by a Tiger defense that allowed only 131 total yards and recorded eight sacks. As for Columbia's defense, it was manhandled by the Tiger offense all day.

SPORTS

Ah, but there's a catch here. That offensive domination only applied outside the Lion 20-yard line. Princeton contracted a case of the jitters in the "red zone," coming up empty three times inside the 20. The result was one of those 22-6 not-as-close-as-the-score-would-indicate games which left Palmer Stadium looking like Mexico City during siesta time.

For those unfamiliar with recent Tiger football history, a quick study session is in order here. Last season, as Princeton struggled to a 3-7 record, its performance inside opponents' 20-yard lines was abysmal. The lowlight of the season, in fact, was against Columbia in New York City. In the Tigers' 17-15 loss, Princeton started one possession on the Lion 10 — and still ended up punting.

Last week, the new and improved 1991 Tigers got as far as the Lion one- and 11-yard lines without scoring. They also settled for a 30-yard field goal after attaining a first-and-goal from the six. Princeton did have a couple of excuses. Both junior right tackle Chris Theiss, probably the team's best offensive lineman, and sophomore tailback Keith Elias left the game in the first half with injuries.

Theiss reinjured his right knee, which has been bothering him all season. He will probably not play this week on the artificial surface at Penn, but will likely return in time for the clash with Yale the following week. Elias, meanwhile, bruised his hip but will return this week.

"It felt like a knife jabbed me in the back," said Elias, who suffered some nerve damage on the one-yard plunge in the second quarter. "But the doctor said there's nothing structurally wrong."

Picking Up the Slack

Without Elias (17 attempts, 83 yards, one TD), it was up to junior tailback Erick Hamilton and fullbacks Peter Bailey and Josh Rudolph to pick up the slack. They did so admirably, as Hamilton picked up 72 yards on 22 attempts, and Bailey and Rudolph chipped in with 38 and 33 yards, respectively. Hamilton, incidentally, has been nagged by ankle and thigh injuries and was originally slated to be on the short end of a two-series-to-one rotation with Elias. The injury to Elias thwarted that plan.

Defensively, Princeton took care of business and then some, allowing only a fourth-quarter touchdown as it rebounded from a so-so performance the previous week at Harvard. The Tigers, led by defensive end Brian Kazan's 2-1/2 sacks, took advantage of the slow Lion offensive line to drop quarterbacks John Tribolet and Bubba Eggleston eight times.

"We blitzed more this week than I think we're normally going to do," said Princeton head coach Steve Tosches, now assured of his fourth winning season in five years at the Tiger helm. "When you play a one-back offense and spread people out, there aren't many folks protecting the home."

"We knew we could go with man coverage, and that's the basis for running the blitz," said junior Keith Ducker, who recorded 1-1/2 sacks from the safety position. "And the [offensive] tackle didn't have enough speed and was getting caught in the line."

The Tigers played without linebacker and captain Jim Freeman, who injured his knee in the waning moments of the Harvard game. The injury will probably keep Freeman, who was a walk-on his freshman season, on the sidelines for the remainder of his senior season. In addition, senior defensive end Leon Newsome dressed but did not play against the Lions. Newsome has been hampered by various injuries all season and, with the improved play of Kazan, Tosches chose to rest Newsome. Senior defensive end Mark Johnson also did not play due to injury and may miss more action.

Princeton started the game as it has many times this

With Two Big Contests on Horizon, Tigers Must Stay Focused on Penn

For the last time this season, the Princeton football team will be asked to keep its thoughts focused on a weak, but potentially dangerous opponent when it plays Penn this Saturday in Philadelphia, beginning at 1.

This season, unlike any other in the past quarter century, has been full of these kinds of contests, and to their credit the Tigers have come up with victories every time, but one. That's why coach Steve Tosches' troops are sporting a 6-1 mark, the best here in more than 25 years. None of their opponents to date has a winning record, and overall they have managed just 12 wins in 51 games, all of them against each other.

The latest victory, a 22-6 triumph over a 1-6 Columbia team last Saturday, was hardly a thing of beauty, but the Orange and Black got the job done. Its fans might have wished for a more decisive performance, one that put the luckless Lions away much earlier than the middle of the fourth quarter, but it didn't happen.

Running back Keith Elias left in the second quarter with a muscle bruise in his back and did not return. His absence certainly hampered the offense, which had trouble scoring once it got inside the 20. Elias is expected back for the Penn game, but the offensive line will be missing its most valuable performer, Chris Theiss, and captain Jim Freeman, injured against Harvard, will sit out another game.

In Penn, the Tigers will be facing another opponent that has won just once this season. The Quakers managed that two weeks ago, sneaking by winless Brown, but they couldn't beat Columbia in New York, and have also been outclassed by Dartmouth, Lehigh, Lafayette, Holy Cross, and Yale. They did manage to hold the Elis in check for two periods at New Haven last weekend, and led 6-3 at the half. However they were outscored 28-9 in the final two quarters.

The Quakers may have sophomore quarterback Jim McGeehan back for Princeton; he sat out the Yale game with a thumb injury. If he's not ready junior Fitz McKinnon will see action. But senior fullback Lance Rushing, injured in New Haven, will be sidelined. Neither the Penn offense or defense is particularly strong, the latter has been giving up at least three touchdowns a game. The toughest thing Princeton may have to contend with is a vocal homecoming crowd.

Around the league, the Dartmouth-Harvard 31-31 tie was the big news. It tightens the race up another notch, leaving the Big Green, Yale and Princeton with the best opportunities to capture the title. Harvard must now hope all three sustain another loss, a slim possibility.

Like Tosches and his players, we're not going to look ahead to the two big games against the Elis and the Big Green. There's much to be said about those, but if the Tigers don't beat Penn, it will have been a waste of space.

Unbelievable as it may seem, a National Football League team once went through a whole game without throwing a pass — and they won the game ... Cleveland went through an entire game against Philadelphia in 1950, didn't throw ANY passes, and won 13-7.

Here's an amazing fact about Bo Jackson ... When he played college football at Auburn, he was named the Most Valuable Player in FOUR straight bowl games — and he is the only player in football history to win the MVP in four post-season bowl games ... Jackson was voted MVP of the Tangerine, Super, Liberty and Cotton Bowls, following the 1982-83-84- and 85-seasons.

season, witb an early touchdown. Relying mostly on Elias, the Tigers went 77 yards in 12 plays off the opening kickoff for the touchdown. The score came on a brilliant 18-yard run by Elias, who dragged four Lions, including one wrapped around his neck, into the end zone. Senior Jason Scott missed the PAT, bowever, snapping bis streak of successful attempts at seven.

Familiar Malaise

The Tigers then adopted another familiar tactic, the post-early-score malaise. Neither team threatened again until Princeton achieved a first-and-goal at the Lion two-yard line midway through the second quarter. Two Hamilton runs produced one yard before Rogbair dove across the goalline. The TD was negated by a holding call, though. On the next play Roghair was dropped for an 11-yard loss by Des Werthman, prompting a Scott 39-yard field goal attempt which sailed wide.

The Tigers picked up the offensive pace in the second half. On their first possession, they drove 79 yards for a score. Rudolph capped off the drive with a one-yard rush through the middle, after Bailey had powered 14 yards through missed tackles to set up the first-and-goal situation. The two-point conversion attempt failed, leaving Princeton with a 12-0 lead.

The Orange and Black then received a gift from Columbia punter Kiernan O'Connor. On fourth-and-23 at their own 37, the Lions sent O'Connor in to punt. But the snap was high and O'Connor, having bobbled it momentarily, decided he had better run. What O'Connor failed to notice was that the Tigers were not attempting to block the kick and that he probably bad enough time to order a Big Mac and fries and tben boot the ball. Nevertheless, O'Connor could only manage eight yards, giving Princeton the ball on the Lion 45.

A picture-perfect pass to receiver Michael Lercb (7 receptions, 93 yards) produced a first-and-goal from the six. But two ineffective Hamilton runs and yet another sack left tbe Tigers in a field goal situation. This time Scott connected, booting a 29-yarder to increase Princeton's advantage to 15-0. "Columbia bas a lot of team speed," said Roghair. "They play tough down there [near the goalline]. They cut off our ability to run wide."

Columbia finally got on the board on the first play of the fourth quarter, with Eggleston (five-for-nine, 50 yards, one TD, two interceptions) having replaced Tribolet (six-for-12, 70 yards) behind center. Keyed by a 15-yard run and a 25-yard catch and run by Greg Abbruzzese, the Lions reached tbe Tiger 12-yard line. Eggleston then found a diving Mike Sardo in the right corner of the end zone. A failed two-point attempt left the score 15-6 in favor of the home team.

Princeton tacked on one more score late in the quarter. Relying solely on handoffs to Bailey and Hamilton, the Tigers methodically marched 51 yards before Hamilton ran right then dove into the end zone. Scott's PAT capped off the 22-6 victory. Then the siren sounded to end the game and wake up the snoozing crowd of 8,428.

Freshman Football Wins, Soccer Captures a Pair

Princeton University's freshman football team won its third game in four starts last week, while the men's soccer team took two of three contests.

Rebounding after a 13-0 loss to Harvard the previous week, the football team knocked off winless Columbia, 27-13, here last Friday. Led by the rushing of halfback Bill Jordan, who gained 122 yards, the Tigers scored the game's first 27 points.

Free safety Kevin Pechulis intercepted two more passes, and now has five on the season. The Tigers will meet Penn in Philadelphia this Friday.

The soccer team, 7-6-1, (2-4 Ivy) won two of three games last week, but did its best work outside of the league. A week ago Tuesday it upset Rutgers, ranked number one in the country at that point, 2-1, on Lourie-Love Field.

The Scarlet Knights tallied first, but the Orange and Black tied the score on a goal by Thad McBride, both scores coming in the first half. John Dziadzio won the game with a goal with 45:22 left, when he blocked a clearing pass and beat the Rutgers goalie with a shot over his head.

Three days later it hardly looked like the same Tiger team playing Columbia on the same field. The Lions controlled the entire contest and won 3-1. On Sunday against Hartwick, Princeton rebounded for a 1-0 triumph. The lone goal was scored by senior midfielder Tim Foley 22:05 into the first half.

The team will end its season this Saturday in Philadelphia against Penn.

The field hockey team had a disappointing finish to its season, finishing with two ties and a loss. It tied Harvard and West Chester, 2-2, and lost to Ursinus, 2-1. The Tigers ended their regular season at 7-3-5, after being 7-0-1 at one point, and thinking about a berth in the NCAA's.

The women's soccer team finished its campaign with a pair of victories, beating Columbia, 4-0, and blanking Stony Brook, 2-0. These came after a 2-1 loss to Harvard the previous weekend. Its final record is 5-10, 3-4 Ivy.

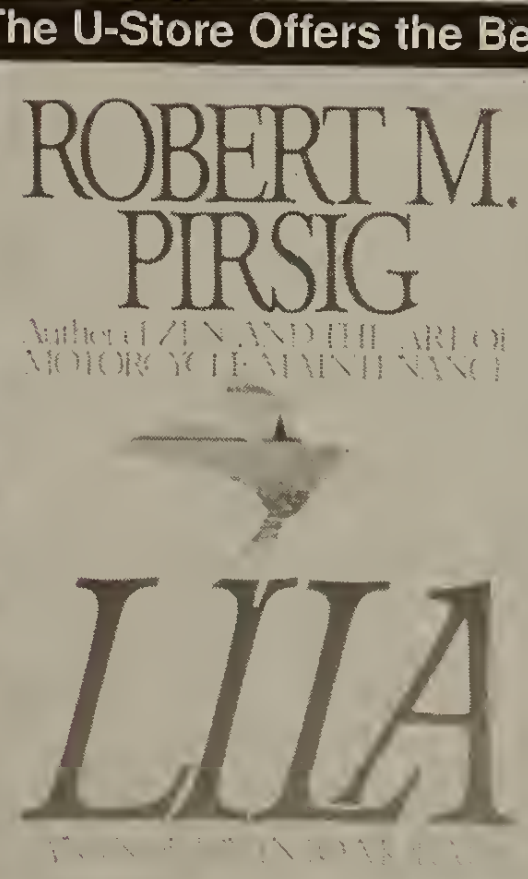
The U-Store Offers the Best in Philosophy:



Lila: An Inquiry Into Morals. Robert M. Pirsig. Bantam, $22.50.

From the author of one of the most celebrated books of our time, Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, comes his first new work in more than fifteen years: a poignant new journey and passionate philosophical exploration of what we live for that examines the essential issues of the nineties as his earlier work did the seventies.

In Lila, Pirsig takes us on a new voyage, mysterious and compelling, down the Hudson River on a sailboat as winter closes in. His philosopher-narrator Phaedrus has a most unlikely traveling companion: Lila, a woman picked up in a riverside bar, who in her desperate sexuality, hostility, and oncoming madness threatens to disrupt his life's work. The story of their catastrophic-comic encounter and the account of the philosophical crisis Lila evokes in Phaedrus brings us both an unforgettable journey and an extraordinary exploration of American identity and destiny.

Early Surge Powers Hun In Prep A Field Hockey

Playing what coach Sharon Minore said was the best half of hockey she has seen her team play all year, the Hun field hockey team last week scored four goals in the first 18 minutes and went on to defeat visiting Kent Place, 5-2. The game was an opening-round contest in the NJIASS Class A field hockey tournament.

Hun was scheduled to meet Lawrenceville School earlier this week in a semi-final matchup, a contest the Hun players have pointed to. Lawrenceville, the defending Class A prep champion, shaded Hun, 1-0, earlier in a regular season contest. Hun is the defending Class B prep champion but has been bumped up to the A level this fall.

The win over Kent Place was the sixth straight for the 10-5 Hun team, which has not lost since a 1-0 defeat in mid-October to rival Stuart Country Day School. Leading the Hun surge has been forward Streya Volla, who scored Hun's first two goals of the game, her 18th and 19th of the season. Her first came off a running drive from the right side just inside the circle.

Following Volla's second goal ten minutes into the game, Lauren McQuade scored from the left side, beating Kent goalie Tracie Wilkerson with her third goal of the season. Melissa McCarthy fueled the scoring binge when she banged in a rebound in front of the cage with her first goal of the season to propel the Raiders to a 4-0 halftime lead.

Kent got on the board in the second half when Libbie Shauber beat Hun goalie Judy Persichetti. After Becky Young scored Hun's fifth goal, Kent scored again when Jessica Angell connected on a penalty shot.

Angell's one-on-one shot was not a hard one and Persichetti appreared to have stopped it, but the ball somehow curved in behind her. Kent Place lost for the third time, against seven wins and five ties.

Both Hun Teams Ousted In Prep A State Soccer

Both the Hun girls' and boys' soccer teams have been eliminated in NJISAA Prep A state tournament games.

The girls were eliminated Friday in the quarterfinals of the Prep A tournament when they lost, 5-2, to Peddie. The Hun boys were ousted in a semifinal game on Monday. They were the victims of a second half surge by Lawrenceville School, which broke a 2-2 halftime tie en route to a 7-3 win.

Against third-seeded Peddie, coach Dave Davis's sixth-seeded Raiders had taken a 2-1 haltime lead on goals by Lisa Markson and Allison Williams. But the Falcons, who had a big margin in shots on goal — 33 to four — rebounded in the second half with four unanswered goals. Jen Pontani had 27 saves in a busy afternoon in front of the net for Hun.

Earlier, Hun had advanced in the tournament with an opening round 3-1 victory over Mount St. Mary's. Susie O'Donnell, Hun's leading scorer, knocked in her ninth and tenth goals of the season, while Williams contributed her sixth. Lauren Fryer was in goal for Hun (eight saves), as the visiting St. Mary's team lost for the 12th time in 13 starts.

In between tournament games, Hun was beaten 6-1 by Lawrenceville. O'Donnell's goal in the first half was the lone score for the Raiders, while the victors (11-1-3) received two goals each from Megan Lynch and Ana Atlee.

The 6-7-2 Raiders were scheduled to end their season earlier this week at Solebury.

Hun Takes Early Lead

Against defending Prep A champion Lawrenceville, the Hun boys led, 2-1, in the first half off goals by Steve Kamnitsis and Courtney Fitch. The Big Red managed to tie it at 2 at halftime on the first of three goals by Mark Marin, but Hun's first-year coach Jim Barlow remarked, "That's about as well as we've played all year."

The Larries, with their superior depth, picked up the level of play in the second half and Hun, Barlow reported, was unable to keep pace. Still entertaining thoughts of an upset, however, Hun took a 3-2 lead early in the second half on Chris Arland's second goal of the campaign — but it was short lived. The victors erupted for five goals on their way to their 7-3 win and a Prep A championship game with St. Benedict's.

On Saturday, Hun had defeated Morristown-Beard, 3-1. It was the third win — and a tie — for Hun in its last four games. Two Raider co-captains, Bob Bollweg and David Kohn, scored for Hun, Bollweg netting two goals and Kohn scoring his fifth of the season. Hun goalie Steve Welham had 10 saves.

Hun began with its biggest win of the season, a 7-0 rout of Wardlaw-Hartridge. Steve Kamnitsis had two goals and an assist to pace Hun. Also scoring for the Raiders were Kohn, Fitch, Arland, Moore and Wartenberg.

PHS Remains Unbeaten with 36-0 Win over McCorristin

The first time the Princeton High football team touched the ball, 97 seconds into what could be called The Bram Reynolds Show, Reynolds scampered around end for a nine-yard touchdown run.

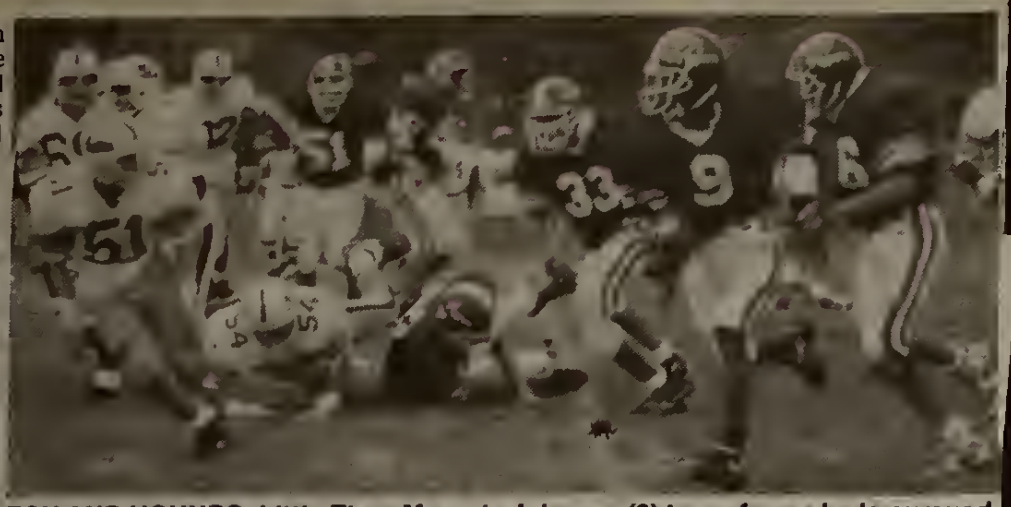
The second time the Little Tigers touched the ball in last week's contest with visiting McCorristin, Marquis Johnson returned a punt 66 yards. The third time PHS touched the ball, Johnson took a pitch from quarterback Brendan Branon and rambled 28 yards. The fourth time the Blue and White touched the ball, Reynolds outran the Iron Mike defense down the sideline for a 40-yard TD scamper.

In the second period, the Little Tigers clicked smoothly on an 11-play, 71-yard drive, capped by Abel Kahn's three-yard carry, the first six-pointer of many to come for the sophomore speedster.

There are two more offensive highlights in Princeton's ultimate, 36-0 victory over the winless Iron Mikes. Fast-forward to the final period. Operating deep in its own territory, after holding McCorristin on downs and pushed back farther after a six-yard loss, PHS brought the sparse home crowd to its feet when Branon, with 7:52 left to play, connected with a short pass to Kahn who raced down the sidelines for an apparent 95-yard touchdown. It was erased by a clipping penalty.

Two plays later, the Little Tigers went 97 yards when Reynolds pulled in Branon's pass over the middle and cut to the sidelines. Almost tackled at midfield, Reynolds managed to stay on his feet for his third score. When Branon passed to Kahn for the two-point conversion, PHS had its 36-0 margin. Two monster plays in a span of 59 seconds.

Just previously, McCorristin's most effective runner, Rob Hawkins (93 yards rushing on 21 tough carries) had burst free for 30 yards to the PHS four. On the next play, Hawkins was stopped for no gain by the middle of the PHS line, led by John Rak. On second down, a pass from quarterback Brian Kowalczyk was knocked down by Phil Garza. On third down, another Kowalczyk pass was batted down by Taron Conover. On fourth down, Kowalczyk was sacked by Princeton's Keith Esposito. It was that kind of day for the victors and the vanquished.



FOX AND HOUNDS: Little Tiger Marquis Johnson (9) turns fox as he is pursued by Iron Mike hounds in Saturday's 36-0 victory over McCorristin football team. Johnson rushed for just over 100 yards.

We Want West Windsor

All of the above is preamble to Princeton's next outing, a 2 p.m. contest Saturday with visiting West Windsor. The Little Tigers want West Windsor. They want to atone for last year's 16-6 defeat, a game they feel they should have won.

Moreover, West Windsor appears to be struggling this fall. It was upset, 20-17, by Hightstown last week to fall to 3-3. A win would put PHS in good position for a state tournament berth. But despite the success against McCorristin, a win that clinched a tie with Hamilton for the Valley Division crown in the Colonial Valley Conference, PHS coach Keith Wadsworth emphasized it isn't going to be that easy.

"We played a good first half," Wadsworth agreed after the McCorristin game. Far from trying to run up the score, he said, "we just wanted to work on things. We just wanted to play consistent football.

"We need all the work we can get. We're going to have to play a good 48 minutes; today I think we played a good 24. Against the bigger teams, you just can't turn it off and on whenever you want."

The states is not guaranteed, insisted Wadsworth. "We just want to go out and play West Windsor next. I think West Windsor is emblazened in bold letters on our schedule. We want to come out and play West Windsor tough."

Right now, observed Wadsworth, "We're co-champs with Hamilton. We've never done that back-to-back before [win conference titles]. The kids are starting to learn how to win. After losing to Notre Dame it was nice to see how they came back and picked themselves up."

The Three Amigos

Nixon Grant, Princeton's dominant offensive player this season, suited up but did not play against McCorristin. The senior tailback, who has rushed for 729 yards, is nursing an infected toe.

James Charlesworth, a co-captain of the team along with Grant and John Meslin, is still suffering from a cracked fourth lumbar bone and did not dress again and appears to be lost for the remainder of the season. Tim O'Brien, who plays both ways on the line and is the team's extra-point kicker, also did not dress. "Three main guys out like that would hurt any team," said Wadsworth.

The absence of Grant opened the door for Reynolds, Johnson, and Ricky Vernon, three sophomore backs who have been playing together since seventh grade, to show what they could do. The three, who Wadsworth called his Three Amigos, put on quite a show.

Reynolds rushed for 55 yards, caught two passes for 118 more and scored 22 points on his three TDs, two extra points and a two-point conversion run. Johnson rushed for 103 yards and scored his fourth TD of the season. Vernon played his usual standout defensive game in the Little Tiger secondary.

Joining them on offense was Kahn, who had 20 yards rushing. All four are sophomores. Senior Taron Conover, always an outside threat, rushed for 39 yards on seven carries, had two pass interceptions and stripped the ball from McCorristin's Hawkins in the third period when the visitors played PHS even. Hawkins had gained a first down on the PHS when Conover stole the ball from him.

Yes, said the 6-2, 189-pound Reynolds, he would like to carry the ball more. He runs the plays in practice, he said, but he'll do whatever it takes to help the team win. "If they don't need them in a game, I don't mind."

"Bram's got good hands," said Wadsworth. "Some say he should be running the ball more but he has a good attitude; he'll do whatever it takes to win."

The game was also a shot for Marquis [Johnson] to show what he's got, added Wadsworth. "He deserves it. He's a tough kid the way he runs outside."

"We've got two games left; we want to win the next two games," concluded Wadsworth. After West Windsor, PHS will host unbeaten Hun School in a game that is generating a lot of interest.

PHS Ends One Win Short; Bows in Tennis Final

The Princeton High tennis team, which swept through its regular season with a perfect 14-0 record, almost went on to capture the NJSIAA Group II state title but fell one match short.

The Little Tigers were defeated for the first time this season when they were edged, 3-2, last week at the Mercer Park courts by Moorestown, the number-one ranked team in the state. The Little Tigers finished 18-1 to cap one of their best seasons ever.

Princeton's top two singles players, Franca Weimers and Luiza Osnovikova, never lost. Said veteran coach Bill Humes, "I couldn't ask for much more than what we did.

"We had a good team," Humes continued. "I didn't know how good we were. We were beating every team, 5-0, so I couldn't get a handle on it." Then his Little Tigers swept through the Central Jersey Group II tournament, winning twice by 5-0 scores and once, 4-1. "In the states we lost the by one match," sighed Humes.

Against Moorestown, winner of 25 of 26 matches, Weimers defeated Kris Sell, 6-4, 6-3, at first singles, while Osnovikova stopped Whitney Springstead, 6-4, 6-1. Princeton's steady third singles, senior Anna Studebaker, saying the tournament atmosphere was a level she had never experienced before, was an 0-6, 0-6 victim at third singles.

Moorestown won the Group II title when it swept both doubles matches, where the Little Tigers suffered defeats for the first time. Jaymie Brechman and Susan Rosenfeld lost their first doubles match, 6-1, 6-2; Nina Pawlak and Stephanie Krauthamer were beaten 2-6, 0-6 at second doubles.

All seven Princeton players are seniors. Weimers, an exhange student from Leipzig, Germany, will return home next month.

In the Group II semi-final matches in the morning, Princeton defeated Mahwah, 3-0, as Mahwah lost for the first time in 18 matches. In an effort to get all of the day's busy schedule in before sundown, it was decided by tournament officals that as soon as a team won three matches, the other matches in progress would stop.

The Little Tigers sent the Thunderbirds packing early when both Brechman and Rosenfeld and Pawlak and Krauthamer won in straight sets and Osnovikova polished off Sara O'Donnell, 6-1, 6-0. As a result, Weimers and Studebaker did not get to finish their matches.

In the other semi-final, Moorestown stopped Millburn, 3-1. Millburn had entered the match with an 18-0 record.

Humes and the Little Tigers will have some rebuilding to do next year, but this season, as Osnovikova commented after last week's finals, is something the team can be proud of and remember for a long time.

PHS Girls Tie Big Red 3-3 in Soccer Monday

The Princeton High girls' soccer team played for the fourth time without a loss Monday when it tied Lawrenceville, 3-3, behind a monster performance by goalie Lauren Wedam, who had 27 saves. Lawrenceville outshot the Little Tigers, 30-13.

Currently 6-9-3, PHS was scheduled to end its season earlier this week at George School.

Cathy Neuger scored her eighth and ninth goals for PHS and Gretchen Strauss also scored for the Little Tigers. Sophie Caronello scored all three goals for the Big Red team which was held to its third tie against 12 wins and only one loss.

Earlier in the week, PHS posted its third straight win with a 2-0 shutout of visiting Hamilton. Neuger scored and senior co-captain Carin Algava scored her first goal of the season for PHS. Shannon Koch was in goal for the victors this time and recorded the shutout.

Boys Lose Pair

A season that will end this Wednesday at Peddie School for the PHS boys' soccer team stretched longer last week, as the Blue and White dropped two more decisions to fall to 2-13-3.

On Friday, Lawrenceville stopped the Little Tigers, 4-1, led by a hat trick by sophomore Greg Busch. Jeremy Trelstad's penalty kick was the only score for PHS. All of the scoring came in the second half.

Earlier, PHS was edged, 2-1, by Hamilton, after leading 1-0 at halftime on Tim Brandt's third goal of the season. It marked the second time this year the Hornets have beaten PHS by the same score.

In the second half, Chris Raba tallied twice to give Hamilton its 12th win.

Hun Routs Pingry, 46-6 Public School Test Next

"We've won the Prep A championship, now we can measure ourselves against a good public school team," commented Hun football coach Bill Long this week, as his team prepares to meet Keansburg High School.

The two schools will be meeting for the first time. Keansburg, noted Long, has a 6-1 record in the Shore Conference and has already clinched a spot in state tournament play. The game will be played Saturday at 1:30 at Keansburg.

"It will be a tough game, played inside their pen," predicted Long. The host's field resembles a pen, Long explained, because the field has been

Tiger Youth Day

The Princeton Family YMCA and Princeton University will co-sponsor Tiger Youth Day, an opportunity for local youth ages 5 to 14 years to attend a Princeton University football game at no cost.

Tiger Youth Day will be on Saturday, November 16, when Princeton University takes on the visiting Yale University team at 1 p.m. at Palmer Stadium. Youths must register with a local youth agency to participate.

Churches, service groups, and other youth agencies may call David Anderson at the YMCA at 497-9622 to register.

fenced in with the stands beyond the fence.

Hun's 46-6 victory over visiting Pingry last week was one of the easiest in its winning streak, which has now reached 22 in a row. Pingry had won only once this season and the Big Blue didn't improve its chances when two of its players had to sit on the bench after being evicted from a game the previous week.

Hun jumped out to a 12-0 lead in the first period. First, Adrian Krause scored on a two-yard run to cap a short drive that was set up by his 48-yard punt return. It was his ninth TD, tops among all Hun scorers.

Then co-captain Doug Bullock finished off a 50-yard drive when he scored from nine yards out. Pingry's chance to get back in the game evaporated when the Hun defense stopped the visitors on the nine-yard line and later when Josh Conner dropped a sure, fourth-down touchdown pass.

Hun increased its margin to 18-0 at the half when quarterback Todd Coyer bucked over from the one, after fullback Guy Romain had set up the score by breaking free for a 40-yard gain to the Big Blue eight-yard stripe.

Bang-Bang Scores by Ross

Hun turned the game into a rout with three more scores in the third period. Tom Ross returned the opening kickoff 64 yards to paydirt and then hooked up with Coyer on Hun's first play from scrimmage in the second half when he gathered in Coyer's short pass and turned it into a 63-yard score — his fifth of the season.

Coyer scored his second six-pointer on a 10-yard keeper (the fourth-year field general had 72 yards rushing and 96 passing) and Sam Boraie scored Hun's final TD in the final period on an 7-yard run.

"It was," agreed Long, "a good game all around." Junior Chris Walsh, he said, played a fine defensive game from his outside linebacker position and played center for the first time on offense. Walsh leads the team in interceptions.

PDS Field Hockey Wins In Prep A Tournament

A victory over Oak Knoll in the Prep A quarterfinals, and another regular season win over Hamilton West has given the Princeton Day field hockey team its best record, 11-3-2, in five years. However, there is still work to be done.

The Panthers were scheduled to play Newark Academy in the Prep A semifinals this past Tuesday. The two teams did not play earlier in the season.

In the other half of the bracket, undefeated Lawrenceville was pitted against Hun. No matter who wins, the finals will be at 6 p.m. Thursday evening in Mercer County Park. The Prep B finals are set for 4 p.m.

If PDS and Lawrenceville both win and advance to the finals, Thursday's contest would be a rematch of the championship game a year ago on the same field. Lawrenceville won that one, 1-0. It also defeated PDS, 1-0, in the 1988 finals at Peddie. The Blue and White last won the prep field hockey title in 1986, when it finished 14-1-2.

Against Oak Knoll last Thursday, Jesse Eaton tallied on a picture-perfect goal with just 43 seconds left in the first half. Britte Lynam had a free hit, and she flicked a short pass to Eaton, who took the ball, dodged around two Oak Knoll defenders, and scored from eight yards away. Oak Knoll's offense was held to just two shots.

The following afternoon, PDS had no trouble disposing of Hamilton West, 3-0. Lynam was on target all afternoon for the Panthers, scoring twice in the first half and once in the second. Eaton and Anne Marie Bernhard were credited with assists.

Final Game This Friday For PDS Football Team

The final opportunity for the 0-8 Princeton Day football team to claim a victory in a winless season will come this Friday against Newark Academy in Livingston. It's a long shot at best.

A year ago, the Panthers ended their season in triumph shutting out the Minutemen, 10-0, in their final game, but the two schools have taken different paths this fall. While PDS has yet to win a contest, Newark can clinch the Prep B title with a victory this Friday. Last weekend, it won for the sixth time in seven tries, knocking off Pennington on its own field, 23-14.

As if the chances for victory weren't slim enough, they may fade away altogether for PDS, if its star running back Harvey Bradley cannot recover from an ankle injury. Bradley managed to crack the 2,000-yard mark for yards gained against Morristown, but he was not in top shape, and the record did not fall until his final run of the contest with time running out. Coach Mark Adams reported PDS will prepare for Newark on the assumption Bradley will not be able to play.

With a subpar Bradley, the Princeton Day offense sputtered all afternoon, failing to score any points for the first time this season. The Blue and White's deepest penetration came after a 29-yard run by Bradley that he almost broke for a touchdown. It carried to the Morristown 26. Three plays later the Panthers had gained just two yards, and on fourth down a field goal attempt by Scott MacKay fell short.

Meanwhile, the PDS defense was doing a good job of shutting down the Mo-beard offense, with the three deep men, cornerbacks Charlie Buttaci and Courtney Batcha and safety Ian Halpern, shutting down the Crimson's passing attack. The home team also hurt itself with penalties, and had two touchdowns in the first half called back becuase of infractions.

Late in the fourth quarter, the MB offense got rolling one last time, and tallied on an option pass, where the receiver got behind a PDS linebacker for a 27-yard touchdown with just 1:36 left in the game.

Bradley had 58 yards on 14 carries, finishing with 2,004 yards. Andy Overman also carried 14 times for 52 yards, Buttaci added 15 yards on two carries, and John Marshall 13 yards on four carries. John Teffeau completed three of seven passes for 29 yards, two of them to Marshall for 16 yards.

Villa Walsh Defeats PDS In Prep B Girls' Soccer

The season ended last Friday for the Princeton Day girls' soccer team, but the Panthers did their best to keep themselves alive in the Prep B Tournament.

Battling against third-seeded Villa Walsh on its field, coach Yves Marcuard's girls managed to hold the favored home team scoreless through regulation time, despite being outshot 30-6. However, VW tallied once in each overtime period to capture a 2-0 decision. PDS goalie Kidana Kassahun turned in a fine game, stopping 18 shots.

In the first round of the tournament, the Panthers had little trouble disposing of a weak and winless Mount St. John squad, 6-1.

The visitors had not won in nine attempts this season, and it soon became apparent they had no shot of breaking the losing streak in this contest. The game wasn't very old when Sarah Berkman fired in the first goal, assisted by Cindy Laudenberger.

Jen Baronian notched the next one with 16:47 left in the half, off a pass from Molly Dwyer. MSJ managed to cut the deficit to 2-1 at this point, but Baronian came up with her second tally minutes later, assisted by Pauline Roberts.

It was all PDS in the second half as Jaime Jackson, Roberts and Berkman all scored. Dwyer and Krista Teffeau picked up assists. PDS had a huge edge in shots, 34-6.

The Blue and White thus ends the season with a 6-8-1 mark. Seniors playing their last game included Pauline Roberts, Meghan Bencze, Sarah Berkman, Deepa Purushothaman, Julia Tatsch, Lisa Lake, Tamara Meade, Shannon Tate and Kassahun.

Marcuard will build next year's team around Molly Dwyer, Jennifer Baronian and Jennifer Mitchell, Lindsay Sternberg and Cindy Laudenberger.

Justin Geisel Repeats As County Champion

Princeton Day's Justin Geisel has finished first in the Mercer County cross country championships for the second year in a row.

Geisel covered the 3.1-mile Veteran's Park course in 15:56, 15 seconds faster than the second-place finisher, Hightstown's Adam Brodsky. John Stitzer was the next PDS runner to cross the finish line, finishing 17th in 17:02.

Steinert won the team title, scoring 60 points; Notre Dame was second with 74. Princeton Day placed eighth in the 10-team event with 173 points.

PDS Soccer Beaten 1-0 In Prep B Semifinals

The best played games often do not end up in the win column, and that's what happened Monday to the Princeton Day boys' soccer team in the Prep B semifinals.

Battling a 15-3-2 Gill-St. Bernards team on its own turf, the Panthers played well, especially on defense, for both halves. The only goal of the game came with 3:22 remaining, on a superbly executed shot by a Gill player.

Taking a centering pass from the left sideline in front of two Panther defenders, he lofted a shot into the upper lefthand corner of the net. Goalie Alex Harris, who had made several fine saves, was screened on the play and did not see the shot until too late.

Each team had a goal called back in the second half. Senior Mike Schragger did a fine job of marking Gill's leading scorer, Nick Patton, who was held scoreless in a Prep B game for the first time this season. PDS outshot Gill 18 to 14, with each goalie making eight saves.

PDS will end its season this week with games against Ranney on Wednesday at home and Wardlaw Friday away. With a pair of victories, the Panthers could finish well above .500 at 11-7-1.

St. Joseph's Beaten

Perhaps last Wednesday, the Panthers were looking ahead to Monday's semifinal contest, because they narrowly avoided a huge upset at the hands of St. Joseph's Seminary.

Although they fired 38 shots on goal to just five for St. Joe's, PDS found itself locked in a scoreless deadlock all of the first half, and a good chunk of the second. The Hawks finally broke through with a goal with 10 minutes left to take a 1-0 lead. After that PDS pressed even harder, and its efforts were rewarded when Mark Trowbridge tied the score with just four minutes remaining, assisted by Michael Schragger.

The game moved into the first 10-minute overtime, and Princeton Day immediately got what proved to be the winning goal from David Jackson in the first 10 seconds. However, the Panthers had to play another 19:50 to claim the victory.

PDS's Sharon Thomas Wins Prep Tennis Title

Princeton Day senior Sharon Thomas closed out her high school tennis career with a big victory last weekend.

Playing at third singles, Thomas captured the championship in the Prep B championships held at the Pingry School in Martinsville. In the finals, Thomas easily defeated Rutgers Prep's Nicole Wasson, 6-1, 6-2.

The Panthers' second doubles team, Susan Welt and Stacey Namm, made it to the semifinals before losing, and then lost a consolation final to a team from Blair, 7-6, 6-4. In team competition, the Blue and White finished fourth with 14 points. Blair won the event with 31, followed by Rutgers Prep with 21, and Villa Walsh with 16.

Girls' Basketball Clinic

Ron Antoniotti, Princeton High School basketball coach, will offer instructional basketball clinics for girls grades 6 through 8. The clinics will be held on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 at John Witherspoon School. The clinics, which began on Monday, will run through Monday, November 25.

Mr. Antoniotti will focus on basketball fundamentals by instruction and the use of drills. Scrimmage games will be held at the end of each clinic if the level of play permits it.

Mr. Antoniotti has extensive experience as a women's and girls' basketball coach both in the United States and abroad. He coached a team in the Irish National Basketball League resulting in his appointment as head coach of the Irish National Men's All-Star team. He also coached an Irish National Girls' team which competed against England, Scotland and Wales.

The cost is $5 for Princeton residents and $10 for non-residents who attend school in Princeton.

For additional information, call the Recreation Department at 921-9480.

LISTEN UP, GUYS: Coach Tom Parker addresses his Princeton Lightweight Tigers football team during an overtime victory last week against Hamilton. The team, for players 10 to 15 years old, then bowed to Trenton in the championship game.

Coach Bill Stoltzfus' team finished the season with a 6-6 record. Next year will be another rebuilding one for Stoltzfus. In addition to Thomas, Welt and Namm, he loses first doubles team Marcy Webster and Nicole Cargulia. First and second singles players Janina Washington and Alison Liberman will be back.

Princeton Gains Playoffs In Lightweight Football

The Princeton Lightweight Tigers gained the playoffs in the Mercer County Football League world last week, but then lost, 24-0, to Trenton in the lightweight championship game.

In its semi-final game, Princeton and Hamilton had battled to a 6-6 tie. The Tigers then won the tie-breaker in which each team is given the ball for a prescribed number of plays and the team that gains the most total yards is declared the winner.

Trenton also won the heavyweight division title.

"We have a pretty young team," said fifth-year coach Tom Parker of the Tiger lightweight team. "Most of the team are fifth and sixth-graders. We have a good nucleus coming back."

The lightweight team is open to youngsters from the fourth through eighth grades and has a 115-pound weight limit. The league is comprised of teams from Princeton, Ewing and Lawrenceville in one division and teams from Trenton and Hamilton in the other.

Running backs in the heavyweight division (also up to eighth grade) may not weigh more than 155 pounds. Maximum weight for linemen varies according to position. Seven players will be named from each heavyweight team (three in each division) for an all-star game which will be played on Sunday.

Parker, who also coaches the Princeton Post 218 American Legion baseball team, coaches both the lightweight and heavyweight teams.

Despite having to make do with poor uniforms, little outside assistance and scant money from the County, Parker's enthusiasm for the program continues and he says he is looking forward to next year.

Storm Bows in Finals Of Boys' Soccer State Cup

The Princeton Storm, a traveling soccer team sponsored by Nassau St. Seafood, captured second place last week in the under-11 boys' division of the State Cup competition at Fort Dix.

In its semi-final match on Saturday, the Storm defeated the Hamilton Highwaymen, 3-1, in overtime. Hamilton scored first, but the Storm pulled even on a goal by Brett Carty assisted by Noah Stout. Neither team scored in the second half or in the first overtime period. Three and a half minutes into the second overtime period, John Walsh scored the game-winner on a pass from Ryan Carty. Peter Shungu added an insurance goal with less than two minutes remaining.

The Montclair Rowdies then defeated the Storm, 3-1, in Sunday's final, handing the Storm its first loss. After Montclair had scored twice in the first seven minutes, Ryan Carty scored four minutes later on a pass from John Walsh to pull within one goal, but Montclair capped its scoring by tallying a third goal before halftime.

No Princeton team had advanced this far in State Cup competition before. Throughout the tournament, the Storm received fine play from its entire roster: goalkeepers Matt Riepenhoff and Tyler Potts, sweeper Francesco Rusciano, stopper Hal Wansley, fullbacks Alex Mathews and Jeff Coleman, left midfielders Peter Shungu and Rip Rice, center midfielder Noah Stout, right midfielders Matt Hankin and Ted Shoaf, attacking midfielders John Walsh and Juan Reyes, and strikers Brett and Ryan Carty. Coaches are Jeff Stout and Bob Coleman.

Evaluation Day Is Listed For Dillon Youth League

All youths who wish to play in the Dillon Youth Basketball Program at Dillon Gym this fall must first be evaluated.

Junior division players (10 to 12) will be evaluated at the Dillon gym on the Princeton University campus from 9 to 10:30 on Saturday morning; senior division players (13 to 15) will be evaluated from 10:30 to 11:30.

The league, sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department, is open to youths who attend school in Princeton.

Registration will only be taken at the Recreation Department office. The deadline to register is November 15.

For futher information about the league, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

Soccer Tryouts Saturday

Tryouts for the Princeton Soccer Association's under-15 team, The Princeton Packet, for boys born on or after August 1, 1976, will be held at Community Park on Saturday from 11 to 12:30 p.m.

The team will play a full league and tournament schedule indoors this winter before competing in the Mid-New Jersey Youth Soccer League in the spring. Princeton residency is not required.

For further information, call coach Ted Terpstra, 924-8243.

PPPL Anniversary

terhorn, a classified project studying the hydrogen bomb. Dr. Spitzer was put in charge of the controlled thermonuclear research section, which had its initial home in a former rabbit hutch on the James Forrestal campus. A year later the first research device, the Model A stellarator, was built.

At the dinner, Dr. Spitzer recounted some of the early problems with his confinement scheme. Later the figure eight was changed to a race track design, and still later to the doughnut-shaped toroidal device known as the tokamak.

Today, the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor (TFTR), which began operation at the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory in December, 1982, is the largest operating magnetic fusion device in the United States. Two other magnetic fusion devices at PPPL are the Princeton Beta Experiment-Modification, an advanced concept tokamak design to explore opportunities for improving the attractiveness of the tokamak concept, and the Current Drive Experiment-Upgrade, a small-scale facility on which new ideas can be tested before they are tried on larger tokamaks.

In addition PPPL physicists and scientists are participating in a world-wide collaboration to design the International Thermonuclear Experimental Reactor.

Expensive Next Step

The next step to the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor would be the Burning Plasma Experiment or BPX, estimated to cost $1.43 billion just to build. The Department of Energy has told fusion researchers that much money is not available and they should go back to the drawing boards for a simpler, less expensive design.

HOMAGE TO A MENTOR: Astrophysicist, author and educator Carl Sagan, left, with Lyman Spitzer, former chairman of the Astronomy Department at Princeton University, whose interest in interstellar plasmas and magnetic fusion research led to the founding of the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory 40 years ago. Dr. Sagan spoke at a dinner honoring Prof. Spitzer last Thursday, one of the events celebrating the anniversary. (Robert Matthews photo)

Dr. Sagan's role at the dinner last Thursday was two-fold. He paid tribute to Dr. Spitzer's wide-ranging career, which has included important contributions to space astronomy and the building of orbiting space telescopes as well as to theories of star formations and stellar systems.

Dr. Sagan described how, as a high school junior in Rahway "hyperenthusiastic" about rockets and interplanetary exploration, he called up the chairman of the Astronomy Department at Princeton — whose name he came across in a spacecraft magazine — and asked if they could meet.

Receiving an affirmative answer, he took the train from Rahway to Princeton and was warmly received at the Spitzer home. The friendship has continued over the years.

The main part of Dr. Sagan's talk dealt with prospects for fusion. Pointing out that fusion reactions — forcing atoms to fuse together as a means of transforming mass into energy — have many advantages over fission — the splitting of atoms to release energy — he went on to paint a gloomy picture of the devastation of the earth from global warming brought on by burning fossil fuels.

He said it is this perspective that will drive the question of what alternatives to fossil fuel will be developed in the future and that the U.S. endorsement of such alternatives would be a deterrent to China and third world countries from relying on fossil fuels to the extent we have.

He mentioned the massive cuts in fusion research funding and said that although fusion seems to be very expensive, the pay-off is in the future, which doesn't match the short timeframe of industry. Dr. Sagan said, "I don't know if fusion is the answer — maybe not in the short term." But he said that if $300 billion can be spent for defense, surely similar amounts can be allocated to fusion research.

He called fusion "the right long-term solution and too good to pass up," and in conclusion said he hoped the day would come when Lyman Spitzer's "dream of bringing the thermonuclear fire of the stars down to earth for every citizens of the planet will be a reality."

Winter Sports Clinics Are Planned for Youth

The Recreation Department is now holding registration for several upcoming winter sports programs.

An indoor instructional soccer clinic for boys and girls will be held on Monday evenings at John Witherspoon Middle School for children in grades three and four, and on Friday evenings at Princeton High School for grades five through eight. The program begins the week of December 2. The cost is $15 for Princeton residents and $30 for non-residents who attend school in Princeton.

Also offered this winter is the Junior Wrestling Program, which is taught through PAWS (Princeton Amateur Wrestling Society). This program is open to children in grades three through eight and practices are held on Monday and Wednesday evenings at The Hun School Gymnasium, beginning December 2. The program fee is $30 for Princeton residents and $60 for non-residents who attend school in Princeton. Anyone interested in learning more about the program is invited to the orientation/registration nights, which will be held on Monday, November 25, and Wednesday, November 27, from 6:30 to 8:30.

A four-week squash clinic will be offered for players 10 years to adult at the Jadwin Gymnasium on the Princeton University campus, beginning Sunday, January 12, from 2 to 3 p.m. The equipment will be provided by the instructors, who are the co-directors of the Princeton Junior Squash program. The clinic is $30 for Princeton residents and $60 for non-residents who attend school in Princeton. A free introductory clinic, sponsored by PJS, will be offered on Sunday, December 1, from 2 to 4.

For more information or to register for any or all of these programs, stop by the Recreation Department at 380 Witherspoon Street or call 921-9480.

PEOPLE in the News

Michael A. Gallo, Griggstown Road, Belle Mead, associate dean for research at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, has been named interim director of The Cancer Institute of New Jersey.

Dr. Gallo was the first toxicologist in the Department of Environmental and Community Medicine at the medical school and was instrumental in the development of the Environmental and Occupational Health Sciences Institute at the medical school's Piscataway campus, where he serves as deputy director.

The Cancer Institute of New Jersey, the state's only medical school-based center for comprehensive cancer care, is a joint project of UMDNJ-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital and St. Peter's Medical Center. It provides a coordinated approach to cancer research, treatment, prevention and education by accelerating the delivery of advanced technology from the lab to the patient's bedsie.

Marine 2nd Lt. William J. Mattes, son of William J. and Veda C. Mattes, 1F Windham Court, has graduated from the Combat Engineer Officer Course.

A 1990 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Va., he joined the Marine Corps in January, 1989.

Donald Macleod, 33 Witherspoon Street, Francis L. Patton Professor of Preaching and Worship, Emeritus, at Princeton Theological Seminary, who has spent 45 years in Princeton, is moving to suburban Baltimore, Md., where he will be "Minister-in-Residence" at the Charlestown Retirement Community in Catonsville.

Along with his teaching, Dr. Macleod served as editor of the Princeton Seminary Bulletin for 26 years, was a member of the Chapel Advisory Council of Princeton University for five four-year terms, and for 14 years was co-ordinator of the summer worship services at the Chapel.

Author of 11 books in the field of preaching and worship, he gave the Mullins Lectures at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, the Oliver Lectures at the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, and the Jones Lectures at Duke University Divinity School, as well as conference leadership and workshops at many other schools and churches.

Charlestown, originally the Roman Catholic College and Seminary of St. Charles before its closing some years ago, was bought by an entrepreneur who transformed it into a retirement community with some 1200 citizens. Dr. Macleod's responsibilities will be to present daily the early morning devotional programs via closed circuit television.

Brent Merson

Michael A. Gallo

Marine Lance Cpl. John J. Forsthoffer, son of Edward C. and Barbara Forsthoffer, 271 Willow Road, Belle Mead, has graduated from the Petroleum Supply Specialist Course.

He joined the Marine Corps in March, 1991.

Roger Pine', son of Dr. and Mrs. Rogelio Pine' of Hodge Road, recently returned from a two-week trip to Czechoslovakia with the American Boychoir. Roger is a seventh grader at the American Boychoir School. The Boychoir was in Czechoslovakia to participate in Holocaust memorials surrounding the creation of the "Paradise Ghetto" concentration camp at Terezin, 40 miles north of Prague.

I Never Saw Another Butterfly a collection of poems written by children at Terezin, was set to music in 1968 by Dr. Charles Davidson. This moving work for boys' voices was dedicated to the Boychoir and is performed by them in an edition reserved for them. The Boychoir has presented Butterfly in cities and towns across America during three national tours.

Navy Ensign James C. MacMurray, son of John W. and Joy H. MacMurray, 189 Sayre Drive, has been commissioned upon graduation from Officer Candidate School.

A 1991 graduate of the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, he joined the Navy Reserves in June, 1990.

Daniel J. Shanefield, 119 Jefferson Road, professor of ceramics at the Rutgers College of Enginering, will direct a project funded by a $154,000 grant from The Hughes Aircraft Company, a subsidiary of General Motors, for the development of specialized ceramics used in high energy batteries.

The sodium-sulfur battery, which is likely to be used in electric cars of the near future, requires a ceramic "electrolyte" membrane, said Prof. Shanefield. The project is aimed at improving this type of ceramic, he said, "so that it will be practical for nonpolluting automotive use and other energy-efficient applications."

Township Vote

Mr. Glasberg focused his campaign narrowly on rising taxes and municipal spending, promising the voters to bring to the office prudent fiscal controls learned through a career in finance and administration. A newcomer to politics and not well-known in the community, he and his wife Lana worked particularly hard going door-to-door throughout the Township.

"I met thousands of people," Mr. Glasberg said at Republican headquarters while waiting for the district vote totals to come in. He said he felt pleased by the campaign he had conducted, that it was about issues that were of concern to the voters and that he would like to play a part in attempting to solve.

Mr. Glasberg won seven out of the 14 election districts in the Township, racking up a two to one margin in District 13 (Stuart Road, Ridgeview, Bouvant Drive) and nearly that in his own District 10 (Dodds Lane, Herrontown, Autumn Hill and Shady Brook. Somewhat surprisingly, be defeated Mr. Godfrey in District 2 surrounding the Institute for Advanced Study, and District 14, which includes Princeton Community Village. He also did well in the traditionally Republican strongholds in the northwestern and Edgerstoune sections of the Township.

Mr. Godfrey won the traditionally Democrat districts of Birch-Leigh Avenue as well as the University faculty areas around McCosh Circle and the Jefferson Road area by comfortable margins. However, he lost his own District 9 by five votes to Mr. Glasberg.

Mr. Godfrey's campaign was somewhat diffuse. He tried to portray himself as a person of common sense and intelligence who would put the experience and expertise of his first term to good use in a second term. He also made a pitch for not weakening the Democrat minority on Committee, but re-election did not seem to be of burning concern to him.

Freeholder Race

In the three-way race for the Mercer Board of Chosen Freebolders, Princeton Borough resident Wendy Benchley running as an Independent fared better in the Township than she did in the Borough. In the Township she collected 1,424 votes to put her third behind Republicans Carolyn Bronson and Patrick Migliaccio, who had 1,886 and 1,451 votes, respectively. But in the Borough, where Democrat Paul Sollami was the top vote-getter in the Freeholder contest, she ran a poor fifth, behind Bronson, Lugossy and Bethea. Her Borough vote total was 784.

Steven Schlossstein, running an Independent campaign for General Assembly, tallied 425 vntes in the Borough and 963 in the Township. The top vote getters for this race in the Borough were John Watson and Gerald Naples, while Township voters split their votes between Republican John Hartmann and Mr. Watson.

Consolidation

Commission. "Clearly people in the Borough are not ready for the consolidation question. But the question of consolidation is still very much on the table, in consolidating tbe Police and other things. The people have spoken, and that's how it should be."

Borough Election District 1, the University campus, was the only district to give the study more "yes" votes than "no," and that was by only a 30-vote plurality. Districts 4 and 5 — from Witherspoon Street east to Linden Lane — both rejected the study by margins of better than two to one. District 3, the Hamilton Avenue/North Harrison Street area, also provided a big "no" vote."

Every Townsbip district voted in favor of the study. The biggest margins of victory were in Districts 4, 5, 6, 7 and 11.

Consolidation was defeated by voters in both the Borough and Township in 1953. In 1965, a joint committee decided consolidation was nnt the way to go, at least at that time.

A joint committee in 1976, bowever, recommended that the two municipalities merge. In November, 1978, ten individuals were elected to a Joint Municipal Consolidatinn Commission.

The Commission unanimously recommended consolidation, which lost by 33 votes in the Borough in November, 1979. It wnn in the Township by 2½-to-nne.

Your Civil Rights

Every person has a right to equal opportunity of unrestricted access to employment, housing and public accommodation.

Under federal, state and local laws, discrimination for reasons of race, color, creed, religion, national origin, ancestry, marital status, sex, age, physical or mental handicap with respect to sale or rental property, is illegal. You cannot be denied employment because of the same reasons.

If you have suffered discrimination by a hotel, restaurant, theater, sports arena or similar place of public use; or if you have been threatened in some way while using or attempting to use such a place, come in or visit the Joint Commission on Civil Rights, 1 Monument Drive, 497-7614.

mund's death last year. "Obviously, I regret losing Lucy on Council. And I welcome Ray, who is not nnly an experienced candidate but experienced in community issues."

At Republican headquarters on Hulfish Street, Mr. Wadsworth said, "I just want to thank everyone that voted for me. It shows that the Princeton people are out for the Princetons. They know I'll stand up and fight for them."

Mr. Wadsworth, a resident of Spruce Street, pulled well in District 4, his tree street neighborhood. He won a 67-vote plurality in District 8 and a 53-vote plurality in District 10, both in the western section.

Mrs. Mackenzie did well in Districts 1 and 2, both University districts, as well as in District 6 — the John-Witherspoon section — and District 9, Jugtown.

Mr. Goldfarb, because he was elected to an unexpired term (the remainder of Mayor Reed's term) will be sworn in on Thursday. Mr. Freda and Mr. Wadsworth will be sworn in on New Year's Day.

Forty seven percent of the Borough's 4,923 registered voters went to the polls. Districts 3 and 9 had the highest turnout with two-thirds of their residents voting.

RELIGION

Commissioning Ceremony For Unitarian Minister

In a ceremony highlighted by a newly commissioned anthem based on a poem by e.e. cummings and by addresses by 10 religion and lay leaders, Dr. Paul S. Johnson will be formally installed as parish minister of the Unitarian Church of Princeton on Sunday afternoon.

The son of a Minnesota minister of Scandinavian heritage, Dr. Johnson studied at Trinity College and the University of Minnesota. He took his training for the Unitarian-Universalist ministry at the Meadville-Lombard Theological School at the University of Chicago and entered the ministry in 1975. This past May, he was called to the Princeton church from the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Silver Spring, Md., which he had served for 10 years.

The Rev. Dr. Kenneth Torquil MacLean, minister of the Cedar Lane Unitarian Church of Bethesda, Md., will lead the ceremony and give the principal address. He will speak on "The Presence of Ministry."

Delivering the charge to the minister will be the Rev. David Bumbaugh, minister of the Unitarian Church in Summit and president of the Unitarian-Universalist Ministers' Association of Metropolitan New York. The charge to the congregation will be delivered by the Rev. Linda DeSantis, minsiter of the Unitarian-Universalist Church at Washington Crossing.

Marvin Reed, mayor of the Borough of Princeton, will deliver the welcome to the community. The Rev. Leslie Smith, rector of Trinity Church, will offer the welcome to the religious community, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph Williamson, dean of the Chapel at Princeton University, will make the welcome to the academic community.

For the denomination, the Rev. Howell Lind, district executive of the Unitarian-Universalist District of Metropolitan New York, will express the official welcome to the district, and June Gillespie, Unitarian-Universalist Association trustee of the district, will extend greetings from the Association.

The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Benjamin D. Bortin, minister of the Unitarian Church of Staten Island, and the prayer will be delivered by the Rev. Lee Reid, minister of the Unitarian-Universalist Society of the Palisades in Engelwood.

The choral anthem commissioned for the installation ceremony was written by local composer Joel Phillips. It is set to the words of Unitarian poet e.e. cummings, based on his poem, lave is a place.

Harvey Cox

Paul S. Johnson

Dr. Johnson has just been named to the board of trustees of the Meadville-Lombard Theological School. He has been a prime mover in the ministerial associations of the church and has served as the lay representative on the Institutional Review Board of the National Cancer Institute. His wife, Carol Rowan, a social worker specializing in care of HIV-positive patients, works at the Princeton House. They have two children, David, 5, and Kristin, 2, and are living in the Township.

Interfaith Peace Service At Princeton U. Chapel

The Rev. Dr. Harvey Cox, professor of divinity at Harvard University, will deliver the sermon at the annual Interfaith Service for Peace this Sunday at 11 at the Princeton University Chapel.

The Interfaith Service for Peace is the opening event in a day-long conference on "Nuclear Weapons and the New World Disorder," which will continue after the service at the Woodrow Wilson School. The Interfaith Service and conference are sponsored by the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, the Princeton University Chapel and Teach Peace, along with 80 co-sponsors.

Dr. Cox has been a long-time sponsor of the Coalition and delivered the sermon at the first Interfaith Service for Peace in 1980. An ordained American Baptist minister, he has lectured around the world and held the position of visiting professor at universities and seminaries in Mexico and Japan.

He is a member of the editorial boards of Harvard Theological Review and Christianity in Crisis. He also co-founded the "Nuevo Instituto de Central America" in Esteli, Nicaragua. He is the author of numerous books and articles, including the influential The Secular City as well as The Seduction of the Spirit, which was nominated for the national Book Prize.

As part of the afternoon session, Dr. Cox will participate in a panel focusing on "Halting Nuclear Proliferation" moderated by Ingrid Reed, assistant dean of the Woodrow Wilson School.

'Who Cares?' First Topic Of Ethics Task Force

The Princeton Task Force on Ethics' first presentation for the 1991-92 year will be an evening of brief dramatic presentations on three contemporary ethical issues. Entitled "Who Cares?" the evening is scheduled for Wednesday, November 13, at 7:30 in Dodds Auditorium, the Woodrow Wilson School.

Professional actors led by Cheryl McGinnis will present cameo performances from Death af a Salesman, dealing with aging in the workplace; Absence af Malice, the issue of confidentiality, and Eastern Standard, about the homeless.

Dr. Peter Paris of Princeton Theological Seminary will moderate the discussion in which members of the audience will have an opportunity to share their insights and opinions, or discuss what can be learned from the presentations. The audience will also be given cards on which to indicate what ethical issues they would like to see addressed at future gatherings.

All who are interested are invited to participate without charge. This is the fourth season during which the Princeton Task Force on Ethics is presenting a series of programs on ethical issues. The Task Force was organized by area Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic congregations with a mission to raise the ethical awareness in the community.

Participating congregations include the Aquinas Institute, the Jewish Center, the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Nassau Presbyterian Church, Princeton Meeting of Friends, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Trinity Episcopal, Witherspoon Street Presbyterian and the Unitarian Church.

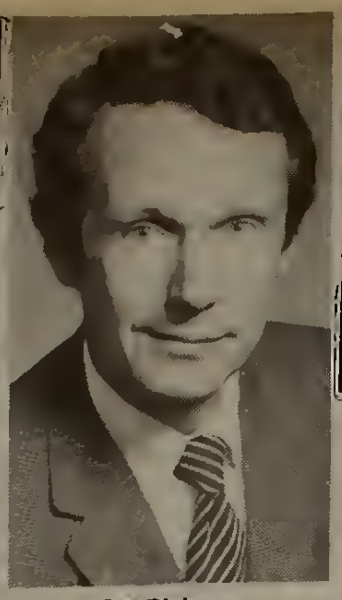
OBITUARIES



Jay Bleiman

Junius Jay Bleiman, a former mayor of Princeton Township, died of cancer on October 31. He was 68.

Mr. Bleiman retired in 1989 from the Woodrow Wilson School of public and International Affairs at Princeton University, where he served as assistant dean for graduate placement, non-degree programs and alumni services.

Born in Englewood, he graduated from West Point with honors in 1947 and served as an Army officer for 21 years, retiring in 1968 as a lieutenant colonel. His tours of duty included overseas assignments in Panama, Bolivia, Korea, and Greece. He taught in the department of social sciences at West Point for four years and concluded his Army service in the Pentagon in the Office of Policy Planning.

On leaving the Pentagon, Mr. Bleiman was awarded the presidential citation, the Legion of Merit, for "substantial contributions to the effectiveness of the Policy Planning Staff through his incisive analytical capability, his gift for clarity and precision in expression, his high degree of professionalism, and his complete devotion to duty."

In 1957, he earned a master of public administration degree from the Littauer School at Harvard. After retiring from the Army, Mr. Bleiman accepted a teaching appointment at the Woodrow Wilson School. He subsequently took on various administrative positions and in 1978 became assistant dean for graduate placement at the school.

In 1970, Mr. Bleiman successfully ran as a Democratic candidate for Township Committee. His election brought a Democratic majority to the five-member committee for the first time in its history. He became mayor in 1973. He was re-elected to the Committee in 1974 and served as mayor throughout his second three-year term on Committee.

In 1979, Mr. Bleiman was elected to the Princeton Municipal Consolidation Study Commission, which unanimously recommended consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township.

A strong advocate of nuclear arms control and disarmament, he served as chairman of the Princeton-based Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament from 1986 to 1990. He also served as president of the Corner House Foundation, a Princeton-based anti-drug program, from 1982 to 1983.

He is survived by his wife, Yvonne Nelson Bleiman, and a daughter, Rebecca Bleiman of New York City.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Nuclear Disarmament Education Fund, 40 Witherspoon Street, Princeton 08542.

A memorial service is planned for Sunday, December 1, at 2 p.m. at the Princeton University Chapel. Interment will be at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

Walton B. Butterworth, 92, a veteran of three wars, died of cancer November 4, at Monroe Village in Jamesburg. He and his wife had lived in Princeton for more than 50 years before moving to Monroe Village in 1988.

Born in Fiskeville, R.I., in 1899, Mr. Butterworth attended Lippitt Hill Grammar School in Fiskeville and Cranston High School in Auburn until his senior year in 1917, when he volunteered for service in the Rhode Island National Guard. He was sent to France as a member of Battery B, 103rd Field Artillery, 26th (Yankee) Division and participated in five major battles in World War I with Battery B's horsedrawn artillery, attaining the rank of corporal. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1923.

He returned to Rhode Island after World War I and entered Rhode Island State College in Kingston, where he majored in chemistry and was a member of Rho Iota Kappa Fraternity. Upon graduating from R.I.S.C. in 1923, he pursued a career as a rubber chemist. That career took him from Providence, R.I., to Andover, Mass., to Trenton.

In Andover he met Grace Keener Pattillo, whom he married in 1937 in Lynchburg, Va. They then took up residence in Princeton.

In 1940 Mr. Butterworth was called back into uniform with the U.S. Army. He served overseas in Australia, New Guinea and the Philippine Islands from May 1942 to August 1945. He returned briefly to industry after World War II, then resumed service in the Army, from which he retired in 1955 with the rank of Lt. Colonel.

During that period, he spent 18 months in Korea, 1952-53, as Deputy Port Commander in Kunsan. He again returned to industry in 1955. He retired from Thiokol Chemical Co. in 1967.

He was a member of the Nassau Presbyterian Church, formerly First Presbyterian Church, for more than 50 years and served for many years as a deacon of that church. He was also a member of the Old Guard.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Walton P. Butterworth of Natick, Mass.; a daughter, Carroll B. Butterworth of New York City; a sister, Maude (Mrs. M. Courtland Arnold(of Coventry, R.I.; and a niece, Nancy White, also of Coventry.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 1 at Nassau Presbyterian Church. Interment in Princeton Cemetery will be private. Arrangements are by Kimble Funeral Home.

In lieu of flowers, a donation may be made to the American Cancer Society, 3076 Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville 08648-2304.

Emma E. Fitzgerald, 79, of East Windsor, formerly of Princeton, died November 5 at Helene Fuld Medical Center, Trenton.

Born in Princeton, Mrs. Fitzgerald lived in Princeton until 1986, when she moved to East Windsor. She was a former member of the Princeton Senior Citizens.

———

Wife of the late Lawrence J. Fitzgerald, she is survived by a son, Lawrence J. Jr. of Winthrop, Maine; a daughter,

Mary A. Fitzgerald of East Windsor; a sister, Adelaide Price of Princeton; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral will be held Friday at 8:45 a.m. from Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue. Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 9:30 Friday at St. Paul's Church with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Family and friends are invited to call Thursday evening from 7 to 9 at the funeral home, where a Wake Service will be conducted at 7:30.

Catharine B. Wood, a longtime member of the Borough Housing Authority, died November 1 at the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Wood grew up in Princeton and lived here most of her life. She graduated from Princeton High School, Marjorie Webster College in Washington, D.C. and Union Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore, Md. She did private duty and school nursing in Princeton and during World War II served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Army Nurse Corps.

Mrs. Wood was a commissioner of the Borough Housing Authority for 27 years, until her retirement in 1989. She also served on the Borough Board of Health. She was active in Republican politics and served as chairman of the Republican County Committee.

She was a former regent of the Princeton Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and a member of American Legion Post No. 76. She was also a member of Trinity Church.

Wife of the late Commander Joseph R. Wood USN (retired), she is survived by a daughter, Ann Wood Norton of Chester, Conn.; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday, November 6, at 1 at Trinity Church, the Rev. Bruce Webber officiating. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery, Trenton. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542, or to the Mercer County Heart Fund.

Peter J. Morgan Jr., 84, former Princeton University track coach, died November 1 at St. Francis Medical Center, Trenton.

Mr. Morgan was born in Trenton and lived in the Trenton area all his life. He graduated from Cathedral High School and Notre Dame University and received a master's degree from New York University. He was track coach at Trenton High School from 1939 to 1946 and also coached baseball and cross country at the school. His Trenton High track teams won eight South Jersey track titles in eight years, three state Group Four crowns, 40 of 41 dual meets, five state cross-country championships, two national cross-country titles, six Penn Relay titles and the American High School championship at the Penn Relays.

Mr. Morgan was track coach at Princeton University from 1946 to 1969. His Princeton team won the 1961 mile relay at the IC4A at Madison Square Garden. He was cited in 1949 by the N.J. State Interscholastic Track Coaches Association for "outstanding service for the sport of track and field." In 1963 he was asked by the State Department to give a seminar to help the Fiji Islands and Solomon Islands improve their athletic programs, with emphasis on teaching and coaching.

He served as executive director of the Mercer County Park Commission from 1970 to 1977. He was a member of the Amateur Athletic Union Olympic track and field committee, a District Two representative to the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and president of the IC4A Track Coaches Association and the Heptagonal Track Coaches Association.

Mr. Morgan was also an accomplished musician who played trumpet with the B.A. Rolfe Orchestra in New York while a student at NYU. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Trenton, and a member of the Mount Carmel Guild and the Trenton Select Committee, which honored him for distinguished service in 1977.

Surviving are his wife, Felice Convery Morgan; two daughters, and a son-in-law, Judith and Dr. Sylvano Lanza of Lloyd Harbor, N.Y.; Felice Convery Morgan of Baldwin, N.Y.; a son and daughter-in-law, Peter J. III and Kathryn of Downers Grove, Ill.; and three grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated Tuesday at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Trenton, with burial in St. John's Cemetery in Hamilton. Contributions may be made to the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, 716 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton 08618.

John E. Irby III, 42, president and chairman of Tenacre Foundation, died suddenly November 4 at home.

Born in Atlanta, Ga., Mr. Irby lived in Princeton since 1968. He graduated with the Class of 1971 at Princeton and joined Tenacre Foundation immediately after graduating. In 1980 he became president of Tenacre and subsequently was named chairman as well.

He was a member of First Church of Christ, Scientist, and a member and former director of Rotary Club of Princeton.

Surviving are his wife, Christine C. Irby; a son, Jason, at home; his parents, Martha and John E. Irby Jr., of Avondale Estates, Ga.; and a brother, Clifton, of Atlanta, Ga.

A private service was held Tuesday at Tenacre Foundation. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the Tenacre Friendly Fund, PO Box 632, Princeton 08542.

Clarence J. Brokaw, 81, died October 30 at John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital, Cherry Hill.

Born in Trenton, Mr. Brokaw was a Trenton resident until moving to Princeton 20 years ago. He retired in 1970 from Princeton Regional Schools after many years of service. He was a member of the Princeton Senior Citizens Club.

Surviving are a daughter and son-in-law, Mary Lou and Stephen Barna of Hopewell Township; three grandchildren, Linda L. Sansone of Pennington, Barbara M. Clement of Hopewell Township and Janet L. Porter of Lawrence; and three great-grandchildren.

The service was held Friday at a Ewing funeral home, the clergy of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church of West Trenton officiating. Burial was in Ewing Church Cemetery.

Memorial Service

A memorial service for Sir Arthur Lewis will be held at the Princeton University Chapel on Sunday at 2. A reception will be held at the Prospect House Faculty Club following the service.

Sir Arthur, James S. McDonnell Distinguished University Professor of Economics and International Affairs, Emeritus, whose pioneering research in development economics earned him the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science in 1979, died on June 15 in Barbados. He was 76.

Born on St. Lucia in 1915, Prof. Lewis joined the Princeton faculty in 1963. He became James Madison Professor of Political Economy in 1969, assumed the McDonnell chair in 1982 and transferred to emeritus status in 1983.

Prof. Lewis wrote 12 books and more than 80 articles and monographs in his field. In 1963, he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain.

Pleasant Valley Road

And a pleasant road it is — as it winds through the rolling countryside of Hopewell Township up a hill to this unique property. Through tall evergreens, the driveway leads to a charming courtyard where stone walls, a picturesque gatehouse and a perennial garden are reminiscent of an English cottage. Horse lovers will appreciate the 8 stall barn, adjoining pasture and spring-fed pond. The remainder of the 12+ acres is wooded — some of it in evergreens which bring a farm assessment from the sale of Christmas trees. The house features stone inside and out. A massive stone fireplace divides a huge "Great Room" into a living room with cathedral ceiling and wall of windows and the family room which opens to a large terrace overlooking the pool. Wainscoting of mission oak is easily recognized as having been reclaimed from a church. The dining room is formal, the kitchen large and modern. A library with handsome teak shelving and a guest room and bath complete the first floor. Upstairs, the master bedroom and bath, 2 family bedrooms, den and bath. Truly — the only one of its kind. $695,000

Your Rights as a Renter

The following information has been prepared by the Rent Registration Board of the Borough of Princeton.

Landlord And Tenant's Obligations:

The tenants of an apartment or house may use it only as a residence. Tenants may have no more occupants than permitted by the Health Code. Tenants may not rent all or part of the apartment to anyone else without the landlord's consent.

Tenants are obligated to use the property with care, to keep it clean, to take out garbage regularly. Tenants are obligated to repair any damage caused by them.

Tenants are obligated to pay the rent promptly.

Landlords are required to meet the standards of the State Property Maintenance Code in regard to such things as window screens, ventilation, pests, plumbing, painting, garbage, etc.

Landlords are required to maintain the common areas of the building and grounds in clean condition and to make any necessary repairs to the vital services promptly after notification by tenant that a problem exists.

Landlords are required to give tenant the name and phone number of someone who can be reached at any time and who is responsible for emergency repairs.

Landlords are required to register each rental unit with the Rent Registration Board of Princeton Borough.

PRINCETON JUNIOR SCHOOL

Does your child feel this way?

In our schoolwe are good
And our desks are made of wood.
My desk is not a place to rest
It's a Place to work my best.

Daniel Rochford II

Space still available in Grades I, III, IV for September 1991

Small classes for 2½ year olds through Grade IV including curricula for the gifted.

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. Rather, they celebrate the special gifts of their age: curiosity, flexibility, spontaneity, will, and wonder.

We do not discriminate against race, color or creed.

From the Henderson Landmark Tradition...

HISTORY SPEAKS

From its humble farmhouse beginnings on Witherspoon Street, to its busy time as the Princeton Hospital, and then to its present location as a charming home for Princeton families, this historic structure has witnessed nearly two centuries of change. Now, secluded in a truly park-like setting bordered by mature, protective landscaping, the spacious home awaits a new family to enjoy its warmth and charm, its gardens, and its convenience, and to share in its preservation for present and future generations. Please call Lenore Rosselot at 609-921-9300 for a tour! $1,200,000
